WEATHER INDICATIONS.

U. S. Department of Agriculture,
Weather Bureau.
Toledo, O., Nov. 23, 1892.

The area of high pressure, and the cold wave have changed their position but slightly during the past 24 hours, and now cover the entire country east of the Rocky mountains. The barometer continues decidedly above the normal over the central portion of the country.

There is a storm of considerable energy, and great magnitude, over the country west of the Rocky mountains this morning, the movement of which is uncertain. It has caused a very steep barometric gradient to the east of its center, which will cause high winds and gales over the path it will take. Should this storm reach the lake region during the next 36 hours it will cause dangerous east and northeast gales.

The temperature has fallen from 5 to 15 degrees from Minnesota eastward, since yesterday morning; it has risen from 5 to 20 degrees to the westward. It will grow slowly warmer during the next 36 hours.

Fair weather has prevailed in all sections of the country except over the lake region, where light local snows have fallen since yesterday. It is snowing this morning at Marquette, Alpena, Manistee, and Oswego; in all other sections in the east it is fair, and will continue so.

Local forecast for Toledo and vicinity—Fair till Thursday noon; slight change in temperature; brisk to high winds.

E. A. HANNER, Observer.

Washington, Nov. 23.—Forecast for Ohio—Fair; preceded by snow flurries on Lake Ontario; northwesterly winds.

For Indiana—Fair; slightly warmer Thursday afternoon and Friday morning; winds becoming east.

For Michigan—Fair; preceded by snow flurries in eastern portions; northerly winds.

Solicitor Read's Plan for Municipal Reform.

In conversation with a Bee this morning about municipal government, Solicitor Read said:

"On my way down town this morning a gentleman from the First ward asked me why I was not down to the meeting at the mayor's office last evening to participate in the discussion as to a reform of municipal government. I answered that I attended a meeting looking to municipal reform in a practical way. I was present at the First ward caucus endeavoring to aid in procuring a good representative in the council. This, in my opinion, is the proper way to bring about a reform of our municipal government. All citizens, especially our business men, should make it a point to attend the caucuses and see to it that none but good men are nominated as candidates for council and other offices.

DEMOCRATIC MAYOR.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 23.—William K. Potter, democrat, was yesterday re-elected mayor by about 150 majority over Col. Arthur H. Watson, the republican nominee. Other democratic officers are also probably elected. Both branches of the city council are as usual largely republican.

AN ACCOMPLICE.

New Theory in the Lizzie Borden Case.

Cause of Delay in Finding an Indictment.

Loose Bits of Evidence Remain to Be Woven.

A Worker on the Farm Said to Have Been Involved.

Search for an Accessory is Still Going On—Proceedings in This Interesting Case.

Fall River, Nov. 23.—Attorney-General Pillsbury caused a surprise in the case of the government against Lizzie A. Borden. The grand jury, sitting at Taunton, would, have, under ordinary circumstances, told the world whether or not they found evidence enough to indict the young woman accused of the brutal murder of her father last August.

Instead of that they were told that the consideration of the Borden case was adjourned until December 1, when further evidence on the matter would probably be offered them.

Saturday the presentation of the government's case was practically finished. Ninety-four witnesses had given their testimony, and four minor ones were to be heard. With their evidence finished, the grand jury would have been ready to report, and it was given on high authority to a reporter that an indictment would have been found.

A short presentation of the principal points was to have been made by District Attorney Knowlton, but, instead of that, Attorney-General Pillsbury made a little speech. He said he had certain reasons—a number of them—why he desired the case left open, and he told the jurors what those reasons were. They were sufficient to satisfy the gentlemen composing the jury, and it was at once unanimously decided to adjourn until December 1, next, when the case will again be taken up.

But while that was going on the surprise was getting in its work at Fall River. Miss Emma Borden was told that her presence was desired in Taunton, and it was suggested that it would be a good idea for Rev. Mr. Buck to go along too. Hon. Charles J. Holmes, who has been the firm friend and counsellor of the young women all through their time of trouble, was also invited to go, and Dr. Handy was requested to appear with them. So the morning train for Taunton had among its passengers all these distinguished personages.

Word was sent for Lawyer Jennings to see Mr. Knowlton in the shire town, but the senior counsel for the defense had been taking a little vacation in Connecticut, and was not at his office when an officer from the Fall River police headquarters called there, but Attorney Arthur S. Phillips, Mr. Jennings' assistant, told him that his chief would receive word in time to be in Taunton before the business of the day closed. It happened that Mr. Jennings telephoned to his office on his way home this forenoon, and Mr. Phillips had a chance to deliver the message which was sent by District Attorney Knowlton.

About noon there was quite an interesting gathering in the Taunton court house. Messrs. Pillsbury and Knowlton explained the government's decision, so far as they could without divulging state secrets, and give some of the reasons why the adjournment was desired.

This was before Mr. Knowlton met Lizzie's attorney in the City hotel, and they went at once to a room and had a long, confidential talk, the first one since the case opened. Contrary to the usual custom, Mr. Knowlton has not conferred with the lawyer for the defense at all until to-day. What the principal point in the conversation was neither gentleman would tell, but Mr. Jennings admitted to a reporter to-night that it was not displeasing to him.

The decision to adjourn the grand jury was not reached by Atty.-Gen. Pillsbury until yesterday afternoon. Then, after mature consideration, he made up his mind that before the grand jury made its report a number of points should be cleared away before the government had gone too far in the prosecution.

These points at present seem to indicate that another person should be indicted, either as principal or accessory. Unexplained, they leave the government's case a little cloudy; that is, while the evidence against Lizzie has been sufficient to warrant an indictment against her, two or three little threads are sticking out which might change the entire aspect of the case.

These threads, properly gathered and worked together, may show another hand in the affair. It is possible that developments may show that person to be the only guilty one. With these threads hanging as they now are, it appears that Lizzie had an accomplice—a worker on the farm—and it is looking up that man and his record and investigating certain evidence in connection with him that largely causes the delay. Those are not the only reasons for the adjournment, but they are some of the principal ones.

The government officials still cling tenaciously to the theory of Lizzie's guilt, but there is a doubt as to the young woman having been alone. Dr. Handy's wild-eyed man is thought of again in this consideration, and also the mysterious Portuguese who purchased a hatchet in New Bedford two or three days before the murder, and the mysterious man of the same nationality who was seen in the vicinity of the Borden house the day of the tragedy, and who has never been found. There are also two or three points in connection with this unknown individual which to-day can be considered peculiar, to say the least. Now these threads may on investigation fail to establish anything, but Atty.-Gen. Pillsbury was determined that they should be examined before an indictment was reported. It is thought the Portuguese may be connected with a farm hand who, from the first, has been somewhat under suspicion, and whose movements on the day of the murder have never been thoroughly explained. The coming 10 days will be directed toward determining whether or not that individual has a perfectly established alibi. The New Bedford hatchet dealer who sold a hatchet to a mysterious Portuguese will be given an opportunity to identify him, and Dr. Handy will also be called on to look at him.

If all this amounts to nothing, and the investigation fails to show further signs of an accessory's hand in the murder, then the wheels of justice will commence to revolve at the point where they stopped and the indictment proceedings will go on.

In connection with this mysterious hatchet purchaser comes another young man whose movements have been carefully "piped" by the Fall River police. He has visited the Borden house several times since the murder, and on every occasion a police officer has quietly tracked his movements. Who this person is only the shadowing officer and the principal government officials know.

Those are some of the threads which Attorney-General Knowlton will have gathered before the grand jury gives its final finding, for it is possible that on them very much depends; possibly another indictment. It is not because of lack of work that these points remain unexplained, but because they have grown more and more complicated as the detectives' labors went on. Now they will be followed to the end. They may show that Lizzie had an accomplice; they may show that she is innocent; they may be satisfactorily explained away. But, whatever the result, Attorney-General Pillsbury does not want any indictment reported until the government's case is made more clear.

The evidence which has hus far been given before the grand jury was much more thorough and complete than that offered at the preliminary hearing before Judge Blaisdell, even by the same witnesses. Bridget Sullivan, for example, went into extensive details in regard to matters in the Borden family before the murder, and told a great deal of Lizzie's attitude toward her mother, as exhibited before the servant girl.

She was, however, unable to give any evidence bearing directlfy on the tragedy itself, but, beside describing Lizzie's actions and appearance after the murder, she mentioned one very peculiar and significant circumstance. It was this: Just before Bridget went up stairs to her room to lie down there was a kettle full of hot water on the stove and a roaring hot fire. Directly after she was called down stairs by Lizzie she noticed that the water in the kettle had disappeared and that the roaring hot fire was almost out, notwithstanding that less than 20 minutes had elapsed.

Chief Hillard also told the members of the grand jury why it was that the mysterious burglar who stole Mrs. Borden's watch and property about a year before the murder was never publicly accused. This peculiar burglary has been frequently referred to as showing the possibility of an assassin entering the house and committing his bloody deed without discovery. The chief said he was satisfied that Lizzie committed the theft, and went on to say how he convinced Mr. Borden that such was the case. All the articles stolen at that time were the property of Mrs Borden, and included beside the watch and money, a quantity of free horse railroad tickets. A number of persons were found presenting free tickets who were not entitled to them. The police asked them where they secured these little pasteboards. They said Lizzie Borden gave them to them. Lizzie never had any of these tickets until after the theft from Mrs. Borden, so Mr. Borden requested that there be no further investigation of the matter.

A number of such points were brought to the attention of the grand jury which never before have been made public, and they added much strength to the case.

Now, when the police are ready to answer the question, Who is the strange man? the case will go on to the next step.

WHEELED TO THE GRAVE.

A Distracted Mother Deserted by Her Drunken Husband.

Crying for Food She Trundled Them to the Cemetery.

She Quickly Cut the Throats of Four and Could Not Be Prevented From Taking Her Own Life.

Paris, Nov. 23.—A horrible tragedy is reported from Mulhausen, in Alsace. A woman named Kern, the wife of a basket-maker named Theobald Kern, had been driven to desperation by the misconduct of her husband. The husband had become so dissipated in his habits that he was unable to earn a living for his family, and remonstrances on the part of his wife only seemed to make him more a drunkard.

On Saturday last there was no food in the house, and the little ones were crying for bread. They had had but little to eat for several days, and were also almost without clothing. The husband was away drinking. Mme. Kern, driven to distraction by the sufferings of her children, as well as her own, put the four youngest in a wheel-barrow, and told the fifth child to follow her.

She wheeled the barrow through the town, the people who saw wondering but not suspecting what the woman had in mind. She went straight to the cemetery and wheeled the barrow to the cemetery chapel. There she came to a halt, and took the little ones out of the barrow. She knelt down herself and caused the others to kneel, and she offered up a prayer.

What she said was not heard by any eye witness, although the keeper of the cemetery observed her from a distance.

After praying the mother arose, and drew a sharp knife. Drawing one of the children towards her she quickly cut its throat. She just as quickly cut the throats of the three other children, and started for the fifth. The latter tried to get away.

The keeper of the cemetery heard the cries of the victims and ran to interfere. He was in time to seize the fifth child before the mother had succeeded in inflicting a fatal blow upon it, although it was wounded by a cut from the knife. The frenzied woman made no attempt to injure the keeper, but turned the knife against her own throat.

The keeper ran to grasp the weapon from her—but too late. She drew the knife across her throat and fell, with the life-blood gushing out on the cemetery path. The tragedy created the greatest excitement in Mulhausen and vicinity. Mother and children will be buried in a common grave.

OPPOSITION BARRED.

A Laundry Blown Up in Warsaw, Ind.

Three Chinese Suspected of Depositing the Dynamite Cartridge.

Warsaw, Ind., Nov. 23.—At 9 o'clock last night an explosion occurred that shook this city from center to circumference. The facts that led up to it are as follows:

For several years three Chinamen have been running a laundry here. About one month ago, Ed. Davis came here from Kentucky and started a steam laundry. He had secured a good part of the Chinese trade.

Within the last week two attempts have been made to burn Davis' building. Suspicion pointed to the Chinese. They were watched and last evening just before the explosion one of them was seen running toward the depot and has not been seen since.

The explosion was caused by a large dynamite bomb being thrown into the building. The entire building was wrecked, valuable machinery smashed and the sleeping room of Davis totally demolished.

There is no doubt that it was the intention to kill Davis, but it happened that he was not in the building at the time.

Excitement runs high and everything points to the guilt of an three Chinamen.

Every effort is being made to find the missing one while his two associates are under a close guard. Lynching has been threatened but it will not probably be carried out.

RUNNING DOWN.

The Government Wants Safer Hands in Control.

Secretary Foster Discusses the Country's Needs,

And Says He Thinks a Big Loan Can Be Floated.

Splendid Endorsement of the Democratic Leader.

President Cleveland Looked Upon as a Safe Man to Command the Ship of State.

New York, Nov. 23.—The Herald publishes an interview from Washington this morning, with Secretary of the Treasury Foster, on the government finances.

"The reports about the depleted condition of the treasury have been grossly exaggerated," said the secretary.

"What do you think of the proposition for a $100,000,000 loan?" was asked.

"I don't think I care to discuss that proposition," replied Mr. Foster. "I do not know what the democrats may do. I am willing to venture the opinion, however, that there will be no issue of new bonds. If, however, the bonds should be issued, and if they were such as the national banks could use as security for currency and they were permitted to issue currency up to the full face value of the bonds, and if in addition the tax on national bank circulation were to be reduced from 1 per cent. to 3-4 of one per cent., it is my opinion that the bonds could be easily floated at 2 per cent. interest."

"How do you regard the proposition to remove the 10 per cent. tax on the circulation of state banks?"

"I do not regard it with favor. Mr. Cleveland is quite sound on the financial question and likely to be a restraining influence with his party in any action in this direction the latter may take."

"What are the prospects for free silver coinage?"

"The prospects of the free silver men are not, in my opinion, very bright."

CHOLERA.

Due Precautions Should Be Taken This Winter.

New York, Nov. 23.—A special to the Herald from Washington says the protest of the passengers of the steamer Weimar, now detained in quarantine, has had little effect upon Secretary of the Treasury Foster.

Her says the regulations must be enforced strictly, even if hardship is caused in some cases, and believes we ought to be careful and take as many precautions against cholera all during this winter as at any time in the past.

The way to reduce the danger from cholera or any other epidemic raging in Europe, Mr. Foster added, was to enact legislation to restrict immigration. He hoped congress would take immediate action in this line.

BY THE BOAT LOAD.

Cholera-Infected Rags Bound for Our Shores.

They Have Been Collected in All Parts of the Quarantined East.

London, Nov. 23.—Over 3,000 bales of rags, collected in Germany, France, Holland and Belgium, have been shipped from here by Wilson and Turner lines of steamhece by Wilson and Turner's lines of steamfer has been made in a suspiciously quiet manner, so as to avoid drawing the attention of the American government to the dangerous cargoes. It is not denied that the cargo is dangerous to the health of those handling it, but strenuous efforts are being made to conceal that fact.

It is learned that part of the rag cargo comes from Hamburg, whose commercial spirits have revived since, for obvious reasons, the cholera epidemic has been declared off in that town. The Hamburg senate has in vain endeavored to suppress the commerce in clothes and rags, polluted by cholera patients, and several people engaged in that traffic have been heavily punished.

This tendency of the authorities has made the dealers careful, and has led them to cut up clothes, linen and bedding from the homes of victims of the epidemic and from the hospitals. Of course, it is impossible to recognize the prohibited article in the shape given it, and so the cholera rags pass muster when mixed with other material of the kind.

It is understood here in shipping circles that the United States have means to protect themselves against dangerous cargoes of that sort, but it is also a well-known fact that disinfection is totally inadequate to kill the germs of an epidemic in closely-packed bales of rags.

CHEAP AT HALF THE PRICE.

An Interesting Newspaper War in Fostoria.

Fostoria, O., Nov. 23.—(Special)—There bids fair to be a newspaper war here, from the present outlook. A short time ago a representative of the Cleveland World came here and formed a combination with the Review (then a weekly) to start a daily edition, and furnish the World and Review daily for 10 cents per week. The Times, one of the dailies now running, hearing of the new adventure, came out last Monday with the announcement that until further notice, they would furnish the Cleveland Press and their daily to all subscribers at 10 cents per week, thus covering the field before the other paper had a chance to start, but it looks as though there would be some cheap reading matter in circulation here before they get through. The Review made its appearance to-day, being a four page, four column paper.

STARS AND STRIPES.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 23.—The Confederate Veterans' association of Atlanta resolved to-night to buy a United States flag under which to march hereafter.

TERRIBLE SUFFERING.

Black Diphtheria in the Lumber Camps.

No Medical Aid—Workmen Escape and Tramp Several Hundred Miles.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 23.—Six lumbermen who arrived here yesterday from the lumbering shanties report that black diphtheria is making serious havoc among the men employed in cutting timber in the Madawaska camp, many deaths having already taken place. The people are without medical aid.

The people who arrived here escaped from the camp and tramped their way to this city, several hundred miles.

The Ontario government has just sent up a number of doctors in the hope of checking the disease.

BAD SMASHUP.

Trains Collide Killing and Wounding Many Employes.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 23.—A special to the Bee from Grand Island, Neb., says: Not in several years has a more serious and distressing accident occurred on the Union Pacific road than the accident which took place Tuesday morning at 6:20, at Alda Siding, eight miles west of Grand Island, when express train No. 8 going at a rate of 45 miles an hour crashed into an extra freight train standing on the siding.

The passenger train which was due here at 5 o'clock and at Omaha at 10:40, was nearly an hour and a half late, and striking the grade west of Alda, Engineer McDonald of the passenger train, determining to make up some of the time, pulled the throttle open, with the result stated. The freight engine had been doing considerable switching on the siding. After the work had been completed the engine was comparatively dead at the head of the siding. The morning was foggy, and unmindful of danger, and resting secure in the thought that the switch was properly placed, the engineer and fireman of the extra waited for the passenger train to rush by, but the switch had not been closed and the passenger train brought death to four men and fatally wounded three others through the criminal neglect of the switch tender. The men killed were:

J. W. Keller, conductor of the freight, Grand Island. He leaves a wife and two children.

Barney McDonald, engineer of the passenger, North Platte, leaves a wife but no children.

Gus Barrett, engineer of the freight, North Platte, leaves a wife and three children.

Ira Owens, fireman of the switch, North Platte, leaves a wife and five children.

The injured are:

William Costello, fireman of the passenger, Grand Island, single, frightfully scalded, both ankles fractured and will probably die; William Sutherland, brakeman on the freight, Grand Island, single, caught in the wreck and feet broken; A. M. Lyons, mail agent, Kearney, head wounds and leg fractured.

No passengers were injured. Both engines are a total wreck, while the baggage and mail cars are badly damaged.

ALONG THE GREAT LAKES.

The Matoa in Danger of Going to Pieces.

She is Ashore Outside of Ashtabula.

Vessel Passages Through the Straits and Rivers—Marine Mention of Interest.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 23.—The big steel steamer Matoa, which went aground just outside of Ashtabula harbor yesterday morning, is in great danger. The sea is very high and the spray dashing as high as her masts, covering the boat with ice. No tugs can get near her. The crew are on board with steam up. It is feared that she will break in two.

The Matoa belongs to the Minnesota Mining company line and is valued at $200,000. She has a cargo of iron ore.

The Soo.

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 23.—Down—Tilley, Merritt, 2 a. m.; Japan, 7:30; Wallula, 117, 9. Clear; calm, colder.

The Crossings.

Lime Kilns, Nov. 23.—Down—Marshall and consort, 10:10 last night; Siberia, India, 10:30; Neosho, 11:50; Wade, midnight; Charles Eddy, 1 a. m.; Tempest, No. 2 and barges, 2:10; King, 2:30; Badger, 3; McBrier, 9; Alpena, Toledo, 10:30; Hurlbut, Clint, 10:50.

Up—Majestic, last night; Lanzell, 2:20 a. m.; Albany, 3; Maytham, Drake, Hudson, 7; Schuylkill, 7:40; Veronica, Wyoming, 8; Horace Tuttle, 8:20; Owego, 10:10.

Cleveland.

Cleveland, Nov. 23.—Advices from Ashland state that ice four inches thick has formed on part of the bay. The Alcona, Alta, Spencer and Pennington, now at that port, will probably be compelled to winter there. Freight transactions here have about ended.

Duluth.

Duluth, Nov. 23.—There is some demand for boats at 3 1-2 cents for wheat to Buffalo, but none are on the market.

Buffalo.

Buffalo, Nov. 23.—Coal freights are slow and unchanged. Charters—Pabst, Barnum, Milwaukee, 70c.

The F. & P. M.

Buffalo, Nov. 23.—Private dispatches state that the steamer F. & P. M. No. 2, ashore above Long point, has been driven close on the beach and has been scuttled to prevent pounding. Her cargo will be all well. The tug Wales, which went to the wreck from Port Colborne, got aground, but is working at the wreck again to-day.

The Glenora.

Sault Ste Marie, Nov. 23.—The captain of the schooner Glenora, which has been adraft on Lake Superior in the furious northwest gales for the past two weeks, arrived here this morning in a sail boat from Point Mammaiz. His boat laying there at anchor, with her rudder and all her sail gone. The crew took the yawl boat, fitted it up with canvas and got ashore in safety. The cargo of 40,000 bushels of wheat from Port William to Kingston, is badly damaged. The captain reports a most terrible experience in weathering the gales, and the crew suffered greatly from the cold. The tug now looking for the Glenora will be unable to find her and it will be necessary to send a tug to the wreck.

THIEVES AT WORK.

A Desperate Gang Doing a Big Business.

Lima, Nov. 23.—(Special)—Lima and vicinity is suffering from a gang of desperate outlaws who have terrorized the surrounding country for the past week. G. L. Herrod was held up at 7 o'clock last night and robbed of a gold watch and money. The police started on the trail of the gang and had a sharp battle, with no results other than injuring a policeman.

A detail of police and deputy sheriffs started on the track with 40 rounds of ammunition, determined to bring in some of the gang or die trying.

At Westminster, John Frazier was held up and robbed of about $75 and his overcoat.

Farmer Bauer, living near Manhattan, the scene of last night's battle, lost about $50 worth of provisions, the gang holding his household under the points of revolvers and threatening to burn the house and barn if he resisted.

In fact, from every hamlet and farm house in this vicinity comes word of the gang's depredations.

At this hour (11 o'clock) the police and sheriff's posse are still out and word is momentarily expected. Surrounding towns have been notified by wire and telephone.

Chief Stockton fell in a cattle-guard last night while on the chase and badly wrenched his knee-cap.

HE WAS A DEMOCRAT,

And His Congregation Wouldn't Let Him Preach.

Rock Springs, Wyo., Nov. 23.—The Rev. D. L. Rader, pastor of the Methodist church here, has been practically driven out of town because he took an active part in the late political campaign.

He is a democrat. The leading members of the church are republicans, and they disbanded the society, deeming that the quickest and easiest way to get rid of him. The church was locked against Mr. Rader Sunday.

He was stationed at Buffalo last year, and headed the citizens' force that surrounded the cattle men at "T. A." ranch.

BLAINE.

Is the Great Republican Leader Dying?

His Present Illness Alarms His Friends.

His Physical Body Completely Shattered.

Physicians Are Constantly in Attendance.

Every Relapse Leaves Him in a Worse Condition—A Week May Terminate His Earthly Career.

New York, Nov. 23.—A Washington special to the Herald says Mr. Blaine is still a very sick man and that his physicians are in daily attendance. General alarm is felt among his many friends in Washington regarding his slow recuperation. The doctors are non-committal when questioned on the subject of Mr. Blaine's health. They are making no predictions.

"Mr. Blaine may be better to-day or to-morrow," was remarked to a correspondent yesterday by a person familiar with the sick room, "but what his condition will be a week from to-day or two weeks from to-day cannot be predicted.

"Mr. Blaine's health seems to have been permanently shattered. His decline began two years ago, and ever since the current of his physical life has been marked by recurrences of an illness of varying character.

"Sometimes his throat troubles him. At another time cold, to which he is subject, settles in some other portion of his body. The present illness is, perhaps, more serious than he has had for some time. It is caused by disturbed digestion, which, to a man in Mr. Blaine's condition, must cause a severe shock to his already enfeebled system."

That Mr. Blaine will never recover normal health is a fact that everybody in Washington is beginning to appreciate. Even with the great care he receives, the least baneful influence, either of a physical or mental nature, causes a relapse. Every relapse leaves him less and less able to recover.

PANAMA CANAL.

A Swindle From Beginning to End.

Sensational Evidence Is Expected When the Case Is Called in Court

London, Nov. 23.—The correspondent of the Daily News at Paris notes the fact that the trial of the Panama canal directors will be conducted under articles of the common law. Therefore, he says, the theory of the prosecution is that the Panama canal project has been a swindle from the beginning and the directors are liable if convicted, to imprisonment and fine and to deprivation of their civil rights.

The family of Baron De Reinach, fearing that his estate, if not properly liquidated, may figure in court as an asset of the Panama Canal company, have applied for the immediate appointment of a liquidator.

The Chronicle's Paris correspondent says the government has ordered that all of Baron De Reinach's papers be sealed.

BRYAN.

Bryan, O., Nov. 23.—The trial of Birchell, for the murder of Arthur Brown, is still in progress.

IN FAVOR OF COOK.

Norwalk, Nov. 23.—E. O. Cook, former agent of Singer Sewing Machine company in this city, was arrested sometime ago by the company for embezzlement. The trial resulting in the jury disagreeing and Cook brought suit against the company for false imprisonment. The jury just came in rendering a verdict of $1,500 for Cook.

O'CONNELL WON.

Cincinnati, Nov. 23.—O'Connell defeated Foley in five rounds at Newport, but not until the chief of police and a representative of the law and order league had had a knock down.

OHIO NAVAL RESERVE.

A Constitution Adopted and the Name Changed.

An Enthusiastic Meeting Last Evening That Lasts Until After Eleven O'clock.

The naval reserve boys met last evening at the Ohio Yacht club rooms and adopted a constitution similar to that of the New York Naval Reserve. It was an enthusiastic meeting notwithstanding numerous counter attractions, and it was after 11 o'clock when the business was concluded.

The name was changed to the Ohio Naval Reserve. Toledo, being the first in the field, will always take precedence over those that follow and the commander of the Toledo battalion will be ranking officer of the naval reserve of the state of Ohio.

According to the new constitution the organization will be governed by a board of ten governors to be selected from the 70 charter members. This board will elect the president, vice president, secretary and treasurer.

The battalion officers will be selected from the best material in the oraguization. There will be plenty of honors to distribute as 60 per cent. of the memoers will be officers. The number of officers is large comparatively in consequence of the great number of arms to the naval service.

Another meeting will be held Tuesday evening next at which time some officers will be elected. It is desired to have a full attendance as it will be the most important meeting yet held.

A committee will soon be sent to Columbus to secure legislation creating the reserve in the state. It will be smooth sailing as the reserve is sanctioned by both the state and national authorities.

A Local Example of the Result of Skillful Work.

Suffered for Ten Years---Unable to Obtain Relief From Other Physicians---Catarrh With Nervousness, Hysteria, Etc.----Gained 15 Pounds in One Month.

Do you know Mrs. Charles Rainville, of Auburndale?

She is so enthusiastic over her cure by Drs. Byers and Dougan that she would like to talk to you about it. This is what she says for publication:

"I have been a sufferer for ten years from catarrh. My nose was stopped up, I was hawking and spitting all the time, was sleepless and restless, woke up tired and with a dull pain in the back, was dull and languid all the time, seemed to be devoid of all energy or life, and once lay as if dead for three days.

"I was extremely nervous, my ideas were confused, there were ringing and roaring noises in the ears and head, my appetite was poor, food would not digest, I continually belched up sour gas from the stomach, a feeling of oppression after eating, heartburn, head giddy and fainting spells, was dejected and experienced an all-gone feeling all the time.

"My head ached constantly. I had shooting pains all through the body. My throat was sore and tender and my tongue coated. I had violent palpitations of the heart, nervousness and hysterical fits.

"Now I am glad and proud to let the world know what has been done for me by Drs. Byers and Dougan when I was desperate and hopeless as to my case after all other physicians had failed. I saw their advertisement in the paper, and being impressed by its candor and frankness, went to them. I got relief at the start, and began to improve right along. Now I feel a thousand times better. The headaches and pains have disappeared. In fact, all the symptoms I complained of have gone. I feel as if a great weight had been lifted from me, and as if new life, health, strength and energy had been enthused into me. For eleven years I have done nothing but stuff medicine down my throat, but none ever affected me beneficially until Drs. Byers and Dougan prescribed for me. My stomach is all right; I retain my food; the fullness and distension have ceased, my heart feels all right, and I am entirely devoid of nervousness. Bad days with me now are rare. My folks say I look like another woman. I have increased over fifteen pounds since I began treatment with these physicians. If anyone is looking for a doctor to do them good they ought to go to Drs. Byers and Dougan."

EXPLANATORY.

Recently, Drs. Byers and Dougan treated a large number of patients free of cost. This was done for the purpose of demonstrating to all who cared to test them what they could do. A great many doctors advertise, but very few of them carry out the letter of their promise. It is one thing to advertise and another to cure. Drs. Byers and Dougan do not guarantee a cure, but they promise to cure every case that is curable. Each physician has had a wide experience in the treatment of chronic diseases. Each is a competent, skilled, able man. They refer to testimonials given by grateful patients to show what they can do, and they are anxious to undertake to treat those who have failed to obtain relief from other physicians.

The free treatment period has expired. Henceforward the price for medical treatment at the hands of these physicians will be $5 a month for all diseases. Medicines are furnished free. Remember, therefore, that you can get the best medical service at the least cost from Drs. Byers and Dougan for any disease whatever, at Five Dollars a Month.

FOR ANY DISEASE.

Their Credentials

Drs. Byers & Dougan ask that their credentials and claims be thoroughly examined and investigated. Dr. Byers is a graduate of the Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia, Pa., 1872, and has had 20 years active experience in diseases of the eye, ear, nose, throat and lungs. Dr. Dougan is a graduate of the Buffalo Medical College, and also of McGill University of Montreal, Canada, and holds both Canadian and United States qualifications. Dr. Dougan has had 25 years experience in treating chronic diseases of the lungs, stomach, heart, liver, kidneys, bladder, rectum, diseases of women, etc., etc.

City Auditor's Office.

Toledo, O., Oct. 26, 1892.

The committee on ways and means of the Common Council of the City of Toledo, Ohio, and the undersigned invite sealed proposals at this office to

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1892,

at 7 o'clock p. m., for the purchase of Sewer Improvement Bonds to the amount of Twenty-Seven Thousand Five Hundred ($27,500) Dollars, bearing date October 17, 1892, and payable as follows: $2,750 on April 17, 1893, and $2,750 at the expiration of every six months thereafter, to and including October 17, 1897, at the office of the city treasurer with interest at the rate of five (5) per cent. per annum, payable semi-annually at the same place, as evidenced by coupons to be attached to said bonds.

Said Improvement Bonds are issued pursuant to section 2704 to 2708 of the Revised Statutes of the state of Ohio, and also under an ordinance of the Common Council of the City of Toledo, Ohio. "To provide for the issue of Improvement Bonds to pay the cost and expense of the construction of Sewer No. 271, in Sewer District No. 23, in Nevada street, from the Maumee River to Spring Grove Avenue,"—Passed September 19, 1892.

The denomination of these bonds will be first payment one bond of $750 and two each of $1,000, and thereafter one of $750 and two each of $1,000 each payment.

The said bonds will be sold at not less than par and accrued interest, to the highest bidder.

Bidders will be required to state the gross amount they will pay for the bonds besides the accrued interest to date of delivery at Toledo, Ohio. They will also be required to deposit with each bid an amount of money or a certified check on some responsible bank equal to at least five (5) per centum of the par value of the bonds, so bid for, as a guarantee of good faith, and that the bid so made (if successful) will be fulfilled in accordance with the terms thereof, and the requirements of the law and ordinances. When the bids have been examined, and the awards made according to law, all monies or checks deposited as guarantees shall be returned to the depositor, or held by the city auditor subject to his order, except that of the successful bidder which shall be held and considered, and accepted as part payment of the bonds so awarded or sold, but should there be any repudiation of the contract or agreement, or refusal to accept and pay for the bonds so sold, then and in that case the deposit shall be forfeited to the city of Toledo, and shall become the property of said city, in compensation for loss and expenses attending the sale of said bonds and as liquidated damages for repudiation of bid. And no bid will be received if not accompanied by money or check aforesaid.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

Proposals should be addressed to the "Auditor of the City of Toledo, Ohio," and be endorsed "Proposals for Sewer Improvement Bonds."

JAMES H. PHEATT, City Auditor.

LABOR'S CAUSE.

Its Advocates Hold a Significant Meeting.

Education and Reason the Great Instruments.

Necessity of Trades Unionism—Why Agitation Is Required—Questions for Statesmen—The Cause of God and Humanity.

"A great gathering" was the general verdict passed upon the open meeting of the Central Labor union in Memorial hall last night.

The hall was well filled, on the floor and in the gallery, and a good proportion of the audience was composed of ladies. The committee of ushers, led by Fred M. Campfield, of union No. 25, Carpenters and Joiners, consisted of 22 men, drawn from the different local unions, each wearing the badge of his union and a boutonniere. Among them were Ed. Whitmore, of the Painters and Decorators; Sol Kahlo, of the Machinists; James Garity, of the Metal Polishers; A. W. Ayling, of the Plumbers; J. E. Husted, of the Electric Workers; A. Zimmerman, of the Tailors; S. Robenstein, of the Cigarmakers, and Reynold Voit, of the Glass Cutters.

Back of the stage were spread the flag of the Central Labor union and the flags and banners of the different local unions, some of them very pretty, and all neatly grouped. On the platform, beside those announced to take part in the program were a number of clergymen of the city. Among the visitors were Messrs. Henry Weisman, vice president of the Bakers' International and editor of the Bakers' Journal, and Richard Braimswiger, organizer of the Furniture Workers.

Shortly after 8 o'clock President Fellows, of the Central Labor union, expressed his pleasure at seeing so many willing to hear what workingmen have to say. He explained the objects of the Central Labor union, in uniting the local labor unions of the city, and in benefiting the workingmen. One of his principles was that all grievances shall be arbitrated, and to that end invited the co-operation of the pulpit and press. It was willing to leave all questions to good judgment, and was for peace—not a servile peace, or that submission forced by starvation. It did not believe in strikes. It proposed the arbitration idea instead of the "freeze-out" idea. It eschewed politics, though it was sometimes forced into it, to defeat the enemies of labor. He believed if combined capital did crush unionism, something dangerous would rise in its stead.

The Silver City Quartette, W. T. L. and J. A. Walton, H. A. Kelly and H. A. Woods, sang a selection which was so well appreciated that the dusky four were recalled.

Hon. W. Z. McDonald, state inspector of workshops, was introduced. He had come in spite of illness. He spoke first of the importance of labor in the economy of the world, and the recognition it naturally demands. The labor question affected the moral and industrial progress of the world, and was largely a question of education. The employer needed to be better acquainted with his men. The business public and the whole people needed to learn that organized labor simply demanded its fair share of what it produced. It had advanced against ridicule and opposition, till it has become a recognized educator, and is treated with respect. The question of child or woman labor touched the good or ill of future generations. Children uncared for should be sent to a manual training school, to fit them for citizenship. Better that than to build prisons for them after they have matured. In his work of inspection he found that the demand for equal pay to women for equal work done by men a theory rather than a condition. So long as she does not she remains an unfair competitor. All industrial reforms were the result of organized labor. He instanced the department of labor, the bureau of labor statistics, the department of mines and that of inspection of workshops. Last year, through the aid of organized labor, he had succeeded in securing from the state eleven assistants instead of three. He looked forward to the amalgamation of all labor organizations, such as suggested by the Central Labor union, to an impartial tribunal of organization. There never was an advantage gained by either side by force that was not lost sooner or later. Dangers to organized labor lay in the deposition of able leaders, in demagogues. These should be avoided. He urged all to stand by their principles, certain of victory.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mansfield Irving recited the poem of the Specter Wolves with strong effect. She was recalled, and, by request, gave a medley she had herself arranged, and which is very clever. She was again recalled and represented the trials of Mrs. Bijah Brown, the inventor's wife. She took the house.

Mrs. M. E. Dutton was introduced and read a paper on organization among women. Referring to the increase of opportunities for women, she spoke of the benefits of organization in securing equal pay for equal work. She must not presume on her sex but do her share and ask her share—all uniting to help each other. She referred to failures in concerted action among women. Their co-operation is rather with members of their families than with others. By trades unionism she can broaden her co-operation and avoid working for such wages as lower those of all her sister workers. Organization is necessary; personal preferences must be subordinated, without surrendering reasonable opinion. Women are learning the power of organization, in spite of the disadvantages they encounter; becoming more self-reliant. She believed that silly women were responsible for most of the domestic misery. Women should be companions of men and respected as such. She deprecated the class distinctions among working women, and agreed that organization would do away with this, and make better wives and mothers.

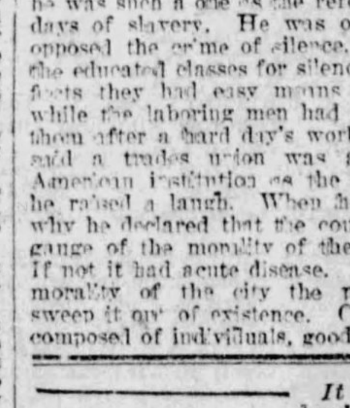
Miss Jennie Harris, the blind vocalist, sang "Oh, If I Were a Voice," very sweetly. Recalled, she sang "We Are Floating," with much feeling. She played her own accompaniment. A basket of flowers was sent up to her.

The chairman announced that Mr. Henry Weisman would speak in Druid hall this evening.

Thomas J. Morgan was introduced. Accused of being an agitator, he said that he was such a one as the reformers in the days of slavery. He was of those who opposed the crime of silence, and blamed the educated classes for silence upon those facts they had easy means of knowing, while the laboring men had to grope for them after a hard day's work. When he said a trades union was as much an American institution as the city council, he raised a laugh. When he understood why he declared that the council was the gauge of the morality of the community. If not it had acute disease. If below the morality of the city the people would sweep it out of existence. Councils were composed of individuals, good or bad—perhaps mostly bad. Trades unions were also composed of individuals, mostly good; but there were some bad, as in city councils. He went back into the history of labor and showed the necessity for trades unions. By a diagram he showed the proportion of workingmen, employers, wealth produced, the shares of labor and of capital in decennial periods from 1850 to 1890. He demonstrated that while the number of employers in the last decennial period increased to 250,000 the wealth produced vastly increased, and the labor that produces it got a decreasing share. He argued that such a position was a menace to the American republic.

Rev. B. J. Sawyer, of Tiffin, urged the necessity of intelligent efforts to right the wrong, the need of labor organizations for self defense against heartless and soulless oppression, and pointed out the ultimate good results of labor unions. He met the oft-repeated argument of cheap clothing by pointing to the fact that they are made for starvation wages. The laboring man wasn't in church largely because they were not recognized by their employing "brothers." When everybody got what he earned all would be well for the country. It depended largely on the employers; but the employers must help, and that by organization to scare the others into it. He hoped to see the day when every laboring man would have his home to enjoy. He made a strong plea for justice to labor, and was loudly applauded at many points in his speech which was often brightened by flashes or humor.

The Silver City quartet sang again, and the meeting dispersed at 11:15.



It clears the head when you clear the stomach and bowels. You can't think, with your system all choked up and stagnant. That's just the time to contract disease, too.

Put yourself in good condition with Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. You won't have to have a struggle with them, as you do with the ordinary pill. You won't notice them. Mildly and gently, but thoroughly and effectively, they cleanse and regulate the whole system. Sick or Bilious Headaches, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, and all derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels are prevented, relieved, and cured.

They're the best liver pill known, purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, the smallest, easiest and best to take. They're the cheapest pills you can buy, too, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned. "Value received or no pay"—it's a plan peculiar to Dr. Pierce's medicines.

RHEA'S APPEARANCE

In Josephine and Sardou's Princess Andrea.

Two Brilliant Plays of a Widely Different Character To Be Presented To-Morrow

To-morrow afternoon that magnetic actress and handsome woman, Rhea, will appear at the Wheeler opera house in "Josephine, Empress of the French." This is the great historical play that the majority of the dramatic writers on the New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and San Francisco newspapers declared to be the strongest one of its kind that has ever been presented on the modern stage. As the name would imply, its theme is purely historical. It deals with the stirring incidents in the lives of those two remarkable persons whose names French history will always keep green in memory, Josephine, the first empress, and Napoleon Bonaparte. Every one of the many soul-stirring events that happened between the time of Josephine's divorce from Napoleon and the emperor's first return from his exile to Elba at the head of the conquering army, is made the subject of an intensely dramatic situation or a telling climax. The author, Albert Roland Haven, a New York journalist, has followed the dramatic life of Josephine and Napoleon to the letter, but if report speaks truly, he has not, in so doing, sacrificed dramatic effect for historical accuracy, as is often done in plays of this kind. Every one of the six acts is said to end with a thrilling climax. Particularly is this true of the one in the fourth act, when the announcement of the birth of an heir to Napoleon and Marie Louise is announced by the booming of cannon. The eastern writers declare this to be one of the most intensely dramatic climaxes ever seen on the stage. Rhea's work in "Josephine" is said to be even more remarkable, from the critic's point of view, than the play. They say it affords her better opportunities for the display of that tragic emotional ability that she undoubtedly possesses to a degree, than anything she has appeared in since coming to this country some eight years ago. These same writers declare that her efforts in such trying plays as "Camille" and "Adrienne Lecouvreur" are not to be spoken of in the same breath with her interpretation of the character of Napoleon's devoted spouse. It is unnecessary to say more to those who have seen her in either of the above-named plays.

The handsome actress is notorious for her liberality in mounting a play and for her extravagance in costuming a part, but if the assurances of the local and traveling management materialize, Rhea certainly has surpassed all previous efforts in "Josephine." During the performance the star will wear all those magnificent gowns that the fashion writers from Maine to California raved over so extravagantly last season. In addition to these will be seen the three new dresses that Rhea brought over from Paris with her last summer. She will be supported by a company that is said to be the best she has ever surrounded herself with. It includes the very capable actor, Mr. W. S. Hart, who plays Napoleon Bonaparte. His interpretation of the character of the Little Corporal has evoked almost as much favorable criticism as has Rhea's Josephine. His make-up is a work of art. When he comes on the stage a perfect picture is presented of the strong-willed, ambitious little warrior, who for a time held the destinies of France in the palm of his hand. Mr. Erroll Dunbar plays Prince Talleyrand, and, if reports speak truly, the part of the cunning old diplomat could not have been placed in more capable hands. The cast is a large one, including, as it does, some 22 people. A large number of supernumeraries have been engaged and thoroughly drilled for this great production. They will take part in the famous tableau in the last act, which represents Napoleon's return from Elbe at the head of a conquering army. Everything considered, it is safe to expect one of the most perfect productions, in every way, that has been seen on the stage of our theaters for some time. At the evening's performance she will present for the first time in this city Sardou's masterpiece, the brilliant comedy, "Princess Andrea," teeming with wit and humor.

OHIO SUPREME COURT.

Decision Day Proved to be a Very Busy One.

Columbus, O., Nov. 23.—Decision day in the supreme court found a large grist to be run through the hopper of justice. Some few of these were of general importance, while the majority were of local nature only. Michael Woolweaver, the Vinton county murderer who created a stir by appearing at the penitentiary while out on bond, asking Warden James to lock him up, to keep Sheriff Jennings, his old enemy, from collecting the fees, is allowed to file a petition in error which carries with it a stay of execution. Sheriff Jennings, it is alleged, persecuted the prisoner for political reasons, much to the disgust of his community. Woolweaver was taken back to Vinton county jail, under threat that in a new trial he was to be given a severer sentence for running away. Through his attorney he files a petition in error to get his case out of the Vinton county courts, where this extra time is promised him.

The court refused to accept a petition in error from John H. Jones, the Lake county saloonist who was given a jail sentence for selling liquor to "habitual" drunkards.

John H. Travis, the Lake county editor of the Advertiser, must also serve out his jail sentence for libeling the candidate for prosecuting attorney whom he sought to "roast" during the campaign of 1891.

The Iden-Gaumer senatorial contest case has been advanced and will be given an early hearing. All points, however, are in favor of Iden, the republican plaintiff. By decision of the court, briefs of the plaintiff can be filed within sixty days, and that of the defendants within ten days thereafter. Mr. Iden therefore can hold his seat in the senate until the middle of February before the case comes to trial.

The supreme court is about to take a hand in a case to debar a young Cleveland attorney, who was admitted to the bar at the last examination. The young man in question is P. J. Brady. It is charged that he forged the name of his preceptor, J. K. E. Meahrs, to the application for admission to the bar. There were no other exceptions taken to his application, but in some manner this charge reached the ears of Chief Justice Spear. He immediately placed the case in the hands of Attorney General Richards, and Allen T. Brindsmade, of Cleveland, was retained to make investigation at the end of the line. Attorney General Richards admits that the facts are true, but he will give no further information.

STREETS OF NEW YORK

Furnish a Real Drama for an Actor.

He Discovers His Long Lost Cousin.

Bertie Kearney Was Kidnaped by an Italian From Whom He Ran Away.

New York, Nov. 23.—Bertie Kearney, who was kidnaped in Montreal several years ago, was found by his cousin, Alex Kearney, an actor in the Soudan company, in this city last Saturday night. The discovery was made accidentally. Actor Kearney appeared at the Grand Opera house Saturday night, and after he left he purchased a paper from a boy who was sitting on the steps of the elevated railroad at Sixth avenue and Twenty-third street. The boy—Bertie is now 12 years old—was "stuck" on a bundle of papers and was crying bitterly. The actor asked him a few questions as to his name and other facts, as he had become accustomed to question every little waif he met in his travels in the hope of some day running across the youngster. The lad said his name was Bertie and told some other things about himself that led the actor to believe that he had at length found his long lost cousin. He took the boy to the hotel and there he became convinced that he was right by finding certain birthmarks. The boy says he was brought up by an Italian organ grinder, who used him so cruelly that he ran away about a year ago. Since then he has lived on what he could earn by selling papers. It is probable that the Italian, whose whereabouts are now unknown, was the kidnaper. Bertie's parents are dead, but he will find a happy home with his cousin's parents in Montreal.

ANTI-OPTION BILL.

Senator Hiscock Will Champion Its Cause.

Senator Sherman Thinks the Measure Is Sure to Pass the Other House.

New York, Nov. 23.—The Herald's Washington correspondent: I hear it is stated that Senator Hiscock will be recognized as the leader of the opposition to Senator Washburn's anti-option bill in the senate, while Representative Abner Taylor, of Chicago, will be depended upon to marshal the forces in the house against it if the measure is returned to that body for concurrence in amendments.

Senator Wolcott has prepared a speech in opposition to the bill and will take a more active part than he did last summer when the debate was in progress. Senator Washburn claims there is still a safe majority for the measure in both houses, though it was apparent when the discussion closed in August that a great many of its early supporters had weakened.

"The bill is likely to pass," remarked Senator Sherman, "but I don't think it will seriously affect commercial countries. Chicago is probably the only city in which the sort of speculation aimed at is indulged in to any great extent. The bill is designed to prevent dealing in grain and cotton options and futures, while stock and bond speculation is not interfered with.

"I have made inquiries in New York on this subject, and the men I met, bankers and commercial men generally, did not seem to fear the result of the enactment of such a law. There is a law against betting on elections, for instance; but we hear of a good deal of betting just the same.

"It does not seem to me to be a measure that business men would really need fear. There is not a board of trade in the country that would be closed as a result of the passage of the anti-option law. In other words, if a suppositious faro bank in the Fifth avenue hotel were closed, it would hardly be proper to say the Fifth avenue hotel was closed."

Thinks It Will Pass.

Washington, Nov. 23.—Senator Sherman stated that he believed the Washburn anti-option bill would pass and become a law. The senator said the debate last summer on the constitutionality of the bill had weakened its support to some extent, but not enough to defeat it. A majority of the senators and members believe the measure to be constitutional.

It is learned here that a regular combination has been formed to fight the bill by Senators Wolcott, Gray, White and Hill, who have prepared speeches in opposition to it. The policy will be to talk it to death. The general belief is that Senator Washburn will win the fight.

BRYAN.

The County Fair Sheds Destroyed by Fire.

Bryan, O., Nov. 23.—(Special.)—The 100 horse sheds of the Bryan Fair company took fire at an early hour last evening and burned to the ground. At the time the fire started there were seven horses in the sheds, but they were all rescued. It is thought that the fire was incendiary. Value of sheds, $2,500; insured for $1,000 in Home Insurance company, of Tiffin, Ohio. The sheds were well built of pine, with shingle roof and had one coat of paint. The loss is a sad one to the company, as the buildings were just built this season.

While the fire was raging a report was circulated that a mob was about the county jail to free the Burchells, charged with murder, and everybody grew wild. The report was without foundation.

NAPOLEON IVES.

He Gets Hold of Another Railroad.

Believed That He is Now Manipulating the Ohio Southern.

Cincinnati, Nov. 23.—A rumor to the effect that Henry S. Ives, the young Napoleon of finance, had secured control of the Ohio Southern railroad is causing considerable interest in railroad circles here.

The fact that Mr. Ives has been successful in several large deals of late, including the Brooklyn dry goods house and the Michigan Peninsular Car company deal, which netted him handsome amounts, lead even his Cincinnati enemies to concede that he has regained his financial prestige to a great extent and his manipulating of the Ohio Southern is not at all unlikely.

FUEL GAS GOES FIGHTING.

The Indiana Product Gets Into a Fangle.

By Mistake Natural Gas Is Forced Into Contact With the Manufactured Article.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—The products of the Chicago Gas Light and Coke company and the Chicago Economic Fuel company came into conflict and the Indiana product came out the winner.

As a consequence many of the gas burners in the business district gave out a sickly blue flame which was a sad failure as an illuminant and complaints went flying into the Gas Light and Coke company's office by the hundreds. In many cases users of the gas, whose minds are still burdened with the details of the epidemic of asphyxiations in Hyde park, became so alarmed that they turned it off completely and for several hours sat in darkness.

It all came about this way. The foreman of the Economic company's pipe-laying department had orders to make a connection with one of the company's mains in the downtown district.

A pipe was found as had been predicted and in a short time the connection was made. It happened that the main was not one of the Economic's, but belonged to the Chicago Gas Light and Coke company.

As soon as the connection was made a battle for supremacy began between the natural and artificial gas. The Indiana product is forced through the pipes at about twice the pressure used by the Gas Light and Coke company. The battle, therefor, was unequal from the start and was soon over.

FLORIDA AND THE SUNNY SOUTH

Via the Big Four Route.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Dr. Toby Makes an Explanation.

To the Editor: A communication appeared in the Bee of Monday evening with the glowing headlines of "Mr. Geyser, Sir;" "Just a Few Questions for You to Answer;" "Killing Two Birds With One Stone;" "One of the Probable Reasons Why the Clothing for the Toledo Asylum Was Bought in Chicago," etc., over the signature "Merchant," the person writing the communication being too cowardly to have it appear over his name.

As I am as much implicated by the accusations made in this article as Senator Geyser, I will answer the few questions that he says "The anxious public desire to know."

We took the train at 11:10 Thursday evening, September 8, and arrived in Chicago between 7 and 8 o'clock the next morning. We took the train to return home Saturday evening, September 10, at about 8 o'clock, and arrived in Toledo the next morning at 4:25. The total expenses of the trip for Senator Geyser, Mr. Cahill and myself were $63.35.

My recollection is, that the dedication of the world's fair buildings did not occur at the above named dates.

This malicious accusation is in keeping with some of the statements made in regard to the quality of the clothing bought and the price paid for it.

An Armour Bookkeeper Makes Himself Scarce.

Believed That He Has Squandered Eighty Thousand Dollars of Hard Cash.

New York, Nov. 23.—The Word this morning says that C. Sinclair, cashier and confidential bookkeeper of the Armour Packing company, has been missing since last week. The exact amount of money that is also missing from his employers' bank account is not known definitely. It is estimated that the company's losses will no the less than $50,000. Some believe that the amount will run up to $80,000 or $85,000. Sinclair, who is 28 years old, has a wife and two children. It is thought that Sinclair spent his money in speculation.

DEMOCRATIC PAINT.

Tries DR. HAND'S COLIC CURE and Secures Rest After

Three Sleepless Nights

MARLBORO, Ohio, April 14, 1892.

The Hand Medicine Co.

DEAR SIRS:—Having used nearly four bottles of your Colic Cure, I forward you this testimonial, hoping it may benefit many mothers with suffering babies. I am the happy mother of triplets, all girls; now 14 weeks old. When they were about 3 weeks old they were taken with a very severe attack of wind colic. There were three days and nights I had two of them in my arms nearly all the time. I tried all the remedies I had ever heard of without any relief. A sample of your Colic Cure was handed me, which I used with the very best results, and I sent for more at once and I shall recommend it to every mother. I feel there is no language strong enough to express its value. I have also used several of the other Remedies and found each to be exactly as you represented them to be. I trust the Lord will forever bless you for procuring a remedy to relieve suffering innocence.

The Light in the East.

The eastern heavens were ablaze last evening. It looked as if East Toledo was being consumed by the flames. Many were frightened, thinking the glow was due to the big comet that is bearing down on our system. It was nothing but the marshes burning, however. It is the custom to burn down all the rank growth on the marsh every fall. It makes a big blaze and thousands of small animals and birds are killed.

The Opera House Project.

J. R. Dewey is in the city from Cleveland to-day. He is still enthusiastic over his opera house scheme. Said he to a Bee: "I will close matters up with New York parties in about a week and then something definitely will be done in the way of furnishing Toledo with a first-class theater on the ground floor."

A Pleasant Evening.

The entertainment given by Wade's Metropolitan Stars last evening at the Central Congregational church under the auspices of Toledo council, Royal Arcanum, was a grand success, socially and artistically. Every number was enjoyable and the company was simply immense. A large number of ladies and gentlemen attended and have to thank Toledo council for a most pleasant evening.

Evening Classes.

Last evening eight pupils were on hand for the arithmetic class at the High school building. It meets every Tuesday evening at 7:15 p. m. The class in mechanical drawing has about 20 students. They meet on Monday evenings and are under the instruction of Mr. Mills. Two grades are established; one for those who have studied drawing but little or not at all, the other for those more advanced.

Lou Van Norden on the End.

There will be a private minstrel performance at the pleasant quarters of the Progress Club, on Monroe street, this evening. Mr. and Mrs. Newton will be at home after January 15 at Hotel Madison.

Death of Rev Frideric.

Rev. Godefrid Friderici, S. J., who died last night at St. Mary's Presbytery, corner Cherry and Michigan street, had been ill but one day. Monday night he was called to a dying man in the neighborhood, and returning home felt some pain in his stomach. Being of a very robust and strong constitution he paid but little attention to it. Next morning he was not able to rise, and despite all medical help and possible attention, the disease made such rapid progress that before midnight he peacefully breathed his last. The deceased father was born near Aix-la-Chapelle, Germany, June 24, 1853, and came to America in the autumn of 1869. For several years he was professor of philosophy at St. Francis Xavier College, New York, and in Buffalo N. Y., from whence he was removed in February, 1886, to take charge of the Catholic congregation of Mankato, Minn. Last year he was attached to St. Ignatius College, Cleveland, and since last August to St. Mary's in Toledo, where by his great zeal and unusual activity he had already acquired the esteem and love of the parishioners and all who knew him.

Thanksgiving Church Service.

Services will be held in many of the churches to-morrow. Several of the congregations will unite, and appropriate sermons will be listened to.

St. Paul's and St. John's M. E. congregations will meet at the former's church at 11 o'clock, Rev. Dr. Fish preaching the sermon.

Prof. Fisk will preach at the First Congregational.

Oliver Baptist, Third Presbyterian and Broadway M. E. congregations will listen to Rev. J. H. Bethards.

At Trinity, Rev. Charles Scadding will officiate.

First Presbyterian, First Baptist and Westminster congregations unite as usual. The services will be held at Westminster, Rev. Dr. McGaw to preach.

Monroe street M. E. and Fifth Presbyterian churches will have a union meeting at 10:30 at the Fifth church. Rev. G. H. Priddy will preach the sermon.

"Advancements and Retrogressions in National Life" is the subject on which Rev. J. L. McDonald will preach at 10:30 a. m. Thursday, at the Bartlett street church.

The Congregational, Baptist, German Methodist and Third street M. E. churches of East Toledo, will hold union Thanksgiving services in the Second Baptist church at 10:30 a. m.

Rev. Sam. L. Roberts will preach the sermon, and the other pastors assist in the services. All are cordially invited to attend.

Y. W. C. A.

The following is the present schedule of classes: Dressmaking and fancy work, Monday night, 7:30; Scientific Bible study, Tuesday night, 7:30; Bible training class, 4:30 Wednesday afternoon; grammar, arithmetic and spelling, Wednesday, 7:30 p. m.; plain sewing, Friday evening, 7:30; physiculture, Wednesday and Saturday nights, 7:15. These classes are open to all young women.

Due Deliberation

Mayor Emmick, when asked to-day if he had appointed a committee of twenty on a plan for municipal reform, as authorized by the meeting last night, said: "No, I thought it better to take another day to think it over. Great deliberation is needed in the selection of such a committee, and it might as well be composed of the right kind of men first as last. I will perhaps have more time to devote to the matter to-morrow."

Electric Lights for Federal Building

Mr. Wm. P. Kerr, who has charge of the wiring and fitting of the Federal building for the electric light, said this morning: "Everything will be ready as soon as the current is put in. We expect to finish our work about the first of the month. Everything is progressing as rapidly as possible. There has been some detention waiting to hear from the officials at Washington in regard to special work."

Continued Cold.

Weather Observer Hanner said to-day: "The snow sneaked in here this morning. It was local round the lakes and nowhere else. There are liable to be flurries of snow anywhere round the lake region. Fair weather prevails generally east of the Rocky mountains, and the indications are that it will hold good to-morrow. If to-morrow is disagreeable it will be due to a very rapid eastward movement of a great storm now west of the Rocky mountains. That will probably strike us about Friday.

"The temperature this morning was lower than that of yesterday over this entire section of country. It touched 17 here this morning. The maximum was 21.6 degrees, and at noon it had only risen to [illegible]. The cold wave still has possession of [illegible] part of the country, and the temperature [illegible] the next 36 hours will change very slowly to about four or five degrees warmer. The temperature throughout northern Minnesota and over the Lake Superior region was down to zero this morning."

THE DONER TRIAL.

A Jury Has Been Impaneled and Sworn

And Councilman Swain is Now on the Stand—He Has Concluded His Examination in Chief.

When court assembled in Judge Harmon's room this morning, Byron Ritchie, counsel for Mr. Doner, was not present, and adjournment was taken until 2 o'clock this afternoon Promptly at the hour Mr. Ritchie walked into the court room and the case was resumed.

Mr. Swain concluded his examination in chief at ten minutes after 2 o'clock.

"Mr. Swain, you were indicted with the others?" said Mr. Ritchie, taking up the cross examination.

"Yes sir."

"Have pleaded guilty?"

"I entered a plea of not guilty."

"What do you say now; are you guilty or not guilty?"

"I am guilty, I suppose."

"You were subpoenaed in this case?"

"I was."

"How did you come to give your testimony?"

"I went to Mr. Barber and told him all."

"Why did you do this?"

"To protect myself and family."

"Then you played the spy, did you, to protect yourself and family?"

"I did not look at it that way."

"You get these other men and their families in trouble just to protect yourself."

"No, sir."

"Do you expect to be protected?"

"I hope so."

"Well, do you?"

"I cannot say."

"Have any promises been made that you will not be prosecuted?"

"No, sir."

"You were at the first meeting of the so-called combine at Neuendorf's store?"

"I was."

"Who invited you?"

"Rutherford."

"What was the first thing said and who said it?"

"To the best of my memory Tanner made the first statement and he stated the object of the meeting."

"Did Doner say anything?"

"Not at first."

"Why did you elect a chairman?"

"I do not know as there was any particular reason other than to choose a presiding officer."

"Is it not a fact, that Mr. Doner was chosen chairman because his name came first on the roll of the council?"

"That was one of the reasons."

"You said something about an oath or obligation taken?"

"Yes, sir."

"Who suggested that an oath be taken?"

"I do not remember."

"You do not remember? Well, you seem to remember other minute details, I wish you would tell who did suggest the taking of an oath."

"I cannot say."

"You took that oath?"

"I did."

"Did you keep it?"

"I did until I felt that the obligation had been broken with me."

Getting Ready for the Evidence.

At 3:15 yesterday afternoon counsel for both sides announced that they were satisfied with the jurors, and no preemptory rights were taken advantage of. The following gentlemen were then sworn to well and truly try the issues between the state of Ohio and George M. Doner:

Michael Kurscher,
Wm. W. Dixon,
Marshal Plumadore,
Peter Cranker,
Calvin Holmes,
Wm. A. Searles,
Sam W. Case,
A. J. Glann,
Henry Driver,
Andrew Harrigan,
Geo. Van Wormer,
Wilson Rawson.

After the oath had been administered, Prosecutor Barber made the opening statement of the case. He read the indictment charging Geo. M. Doner, as a member of the council from the Fifth ward, with being a member of a conspiracy organized for the purpose of soliciting a bribe of the Pluto Oil company to influence his vote upon an ordinance authorizing the company to lay a pipe line to transport crude oil.

Mr. Barber reviewed what the state expected to prove. That a combination was formed by certain members of the council of which the defendant was a participant, met at Neuendorf's feed store on Summit street, and completed the organization of a combination of a majority of the members of the council for the purpose of influencing legislation; that they expected to receive pay from certain corporations for the passage of ordinances favorable to their interests; that they joined hands and took a solemn oath to keep the transactions of the combination secret. He referred to the different meetings and the interview at Lorenz's office between Mr. George E. Lorenz, of the Pluto Oil Co., and members of the combination in which a solicitation of $5,500 was made, for the passage of the ordinance referred to.

He stated that the records of the council will show that the members of the combination voted solidly against the Pluto Oil ordinance.

Mr. Ritchie in his statement to the jury for the defense said: "Gentlemen of the jury, the prosecutor has told you what he expects to prove in this case, and among other things that I'll be sick before he gets through. He stated that he expected to show what Gill and others did, but very little as to this boy. The gentleman says he proposes to show that at a certain meeting, hands were joined and an oath taken. We propose to show that this is an absolute falsehood; we propose to show that the only hands joined in this case were between Ransom B. Swain and the prosecuting attorney of this county; we propose to show that Ransom B. Swain was indicted with others in this case and, that he bargained for the story he will tell you. I wish to say, and I represent Geo. M. Doner alone, and that before the case is ended I will show you that Geo. M. Doner is not guilty of the charges against him."

Ex-Councilman Ransom B. Swain was the first witness called. He testified that the first meeting was held at Neuendorf's store, when the combine charged was organized; that Mr. Doner was elected chairman; that it was proposed to organize the combination for the purpose of soliciting bribes, for the passage of legislation; that it was decided to elect James Paskins as agent of the combine, whose duty it would be to attend to the outside business and secure interviews looking to the securing of bribes. He testified that all present arose, took hold of hands and repeated an oath after Mr. Doner, to never divulge the objects and transactions of the combine.

The Warren-Scharf paving contract on Monroe street was talked of; that this company had signified a willingness to pay something for contracts. He testified that the next meeting was held at Tanner's office. Mr. Felker, a new member, was present, and that Doner had enlightened him as to the object of the combination. The Pluto ordinance was discussed at this meeting. He testified as to what transpired at other meetings held at Tanner's office, Neuendorf's store, Taylor's store, Rutherford's store and Fisher's club house, which was in pursuit of the common object.

He testified that the meeting at the club house was held in the summer house; that there were present Swain, Manchester, Tanner, Daly, Doner, Taylor, Rutherford, Neuendorf and Schmuhl; that at this meeting it was resolved to oppose the Pluto Oil ordinance, by keeping it on the table; that they had agreed to go to the council chamber that night and vote to this effect. This meeting the witness stated was held on Monday, June 20, and that the board of councilmen met that evening.

THE NEW PROCESS FOR MAKING GAS.

Mr. Noteman's second patent on process for making fuel gas has been allowed, giving him broad claims on his invention, which is undoubtedly a valuable one. The gas generator which he has in the basement at his home, No. 2723 Monroe street, supplies his cooking range and heater with an intense heat without odor or any disagreeable drawbacks. Its success is already established. Mr. Noteman would like to form a company to build the gas producers in Toledo, and is ready to make a liberal proposition to any person having means to start such an enterprise. Call at his home any morning or evening, or at room 6, Worthington block, corner Adams and Superior streets, from 9 o'clock a. m. to 4 o'clock p. m.

Mr. H. I. Solomons, representing the Stultz & Bauer Piano Co., of New York city, is the guest of Messrs. J. W. Greene & Co. to-day. He reports a very large increase in the demand for Stultz & Bauer pianos.

KRANICH & BACH PIANOS.
We are to-day receiving another consignment of those famous Kranich & Bach pianos. While it is true that no piano is absolutely perfect, it is also true that the Kranich & Bach approaches the nearest to perfection of any piano in the market. For great durability it has no equal. Aside from competitors, everybody likes the Kranich & Bach. See them at

Americans eat too much rich food, without taking advantage of natural antidotes to overcome the bad effects.

Nobody wants to diet. It is a natural desire to want to enjoy the good things in this world.

Read what a prominent New Yorker writes; he had been troubled with gouty rheumatism and its attendant painful symptoms for eighteen months:

"I have subjected myself for months to the severest rules of diet recommended for such conditions, and used almost all the remedies recommended for gout and rheumatism, without any benefit, until I heard of your imported Carlsbad Sprudel Salts, which I used faithfully for six weeks, dieting for the first three weeks and afterwards eating almost anything I desired. All the gouty and rheumatic symptoms left me after the fourth week, and my general health and spirits have become excellent once again."

You try them to-day.

Let us all give thanks to-morrow that it is as well with us as it is.

Another such victory as the republicans achieved in Ohio, and where will they be at?

There is yet a little time left to make some home glad to-morrow. Embrace the opportunity.

Biela is switching around about in the neighborhood of old Mother Earth, probably to assist in the observance of Thanksgiving.

Toledo's streets are in horrible shape at the commencement of winter. The city is now in shape to appreciate the labors of Mr. McGrath, Mr. O'Hara and Mr. Gribbin, even if they were democrats.

The nominations for the council made by the democrats in the First and Fourth wards are excellent. Mr. R. P. Mathias and Mr. William Gannon are well known and popular citizens, and ought to be elected.

Will some of our republican journals tell the dear people why it is that strikes are decreasing and wages are increasing? These facts are hardly in line with the dire calamities predicted in the event of Mr. Cleveland's nomination.

Representative Griffin, in his address last evening, advised the newspapers to reprint the editorial comments made on the gentlemen who were in favor of a reform in the city government a few years since. The Bee is safe in saying Mr. Griffin's advice will not be heeded.

The old saying that there is wisdom in the counsel of many did not prove true at the public meeting held in the council chamber last night. The fact is scarcely two of the speakers were agreed as to anything except that something should be done to centralize the municipal government.

When the leaders of the defeated republican party acknowledge that the policy of the McKinley act was too extreme, and that they made a fatal mistake in pushing its high oppressive theories to the front, it is a hint abundantly sufficient and the mass of the people will not fail to make a note of it.

There is a wonderful swelling of Ohio's vote within the last twenty-four hours, reaching now beyond all estimates. Somebody at Columbus has been very wild in predictions and guesses. At last accounts it was surging around 860,000, and showed a further upward tendency.

Some people are not happy unless they can make others miserable. Western physicians now predict that we may look out for an avalanche of cholera, because we have a small tempest of typhoid fever and diphtheria in isolated localities. The same notes of alarm were given out three years ago when the grip made its advent, but cholera has not yet secured a foothold on our shores.

The police board in addition to the care of the lives and property of the citizens of Toledo is responsible for the sanitary condition of the city. Under the state law, in cities of the third grade, first class—and such is Toledo—the statute says: "There shall be no board of health, but the police commissioners shall exercise all the powers and perform all the duties of boards of health commissioners," as provided in the statute.

Census statistics show that in Ohio there should be an increase of at least 50,000 voters since 1888. The returns of the recent election show that the total vote has fallen 25,000 below that of 1888. Thus were at least 75,000 voters in Ohio who did not go to the polls. To some extent the greater restrictions thrown around the ballot-box in the Australian law, may account for this, but it is difficult to believe that the reduction should be so great. Other causes have certainly intervened. What are they?

The spirit of combination has seized upon the control of school furniture. We have the sugar trust, the coal trust, the binding twine, umbrella, India rubber, whisky, cracker and other trusts to the end of the chapter of wants that enter into our domestic life. Now it has reached the school room and is fastening its tentacles upon its belongings, and, were it possible, it would take into its grasp the brain of the educator and place a premium upon the aspirations of the student. But there are encouraging signs that the spirit of the trust has about reached the end of its tether. The people have set upon it the seal of their condemnation and under the new order of things in American politics the sky is already gilded with the hues of a brighter day.

Chicago seems to have passed through its boodle period and is now wrestling with the question of milk reform, to say nothing of the world's fair mastadon. Aside from the slaughter of life on her railroad crossings, the peddling of impure milk and its far reaching and deleterious effects pervade every household and introduce the gaunt skeleton of sickness and death into every family circle. Laws cannot be too stringent, and their enforcement too rigorous, in securing healthful food and drink products. Ohio has taken a long stride in this direction, and under the restrictions we have, there is no reason why food adulteration should not soon be a thing of the past.

It is evident that all are not agreed as to the details of a measure for a new government for Toledo. If the remarks made at the public meeting last night are any criterion. The subject is of vast importance, and, as the Bee has maintained, not one that can be prepared in a day. Mr. Griffin is of the opinion that but few changes are necessary, while Dr. Chapman, A. E. Macomber, Calvin Cone, H. P. Platt, Charles Pratt and others have decided views in the opposite direction. One thing is certain, it will not do to attempt to rush through any measure. The committee of twenty is probably the best way in which to secure an expression, and it will be well to await developments. Certain it is that the speech made by Mr. Griffin last evening had the effect of causing thought in the opposite direction from that which had sway for several hours. It may be put down that there will be no general tearing up of the city government.

THANKSGIVING.

Thanksgiving! It is one of the red-letter days in the American calendar. It is preeminently an American day. It was cradled and nurtured among the austere and intolerant Pilgrims of New England, but its observance in the earlier history of the country was more honored in the breach. Its recurrence was neither annual nor even regular. Often years intervened, and its periods were erratic. In this latter half of the Nineteenth century, however, it has become ingrained in the social fibre of our people until its annual observance has become co-extensive with the bounds of the republic. The social amenities of the year would now be as incomplete without our Thanksgiving Day, as they would be were Christmas blotted from the calendar.

And what have we to be thankful for? It is only the pessimist who would ask the question. He might point to the crime that prevails, to the epidemics that scourge mankind, to destruction by fire and flood, to disasters of rail and mine, to homes made desolate, to famine and its attendant horrors, to labor unrewarded, to many of the other ills that afflict mankind. All these he might enumerate, and ask if these are appropriate themes for thankfulness. This, however, would only show the narrow vision of the querist. It would only prove his inclination to looking downward and not upward, to turning his back to the light and peering into the darkness.

We want to take a higher, a broader view. There are good things in the world as well as evil. If we are careful to note the cares, the anxieties and disappointments of life, we should be equally desirous to observe the unnumbered blessings and preponderance of good that surround us, and for all these we have much cause for thankfulness. Nor is it enough to be thankful for material benefits, for abundant harvests, for physical well being, for that which satisfies appetite and caters to luxurious ease.

Man does not live by bread alone. There are higher aspirations that enter into the great drama of human history. Let us as a nation be thankful for the meed of patriotism that permeates every section of the republic. We have cause for thankfulness and rejoicing that our recent political strife has been so happily ended; that our people bow to the sovereign will so emphatically declared through the ballot-box; that the great strikes of the year are happily terminating; that trusts and combines have received a check in the verdict of the nation; that there is an advance in moral truth and inquiry; that there is progress in learning; that there is a broader plane of justice between man and man; that we are beginning to see the dawn of universal brotherhood; that facilities are multiplying for the amelioration of the down-trodden; that organizations for the uplifting of the race are increasing; that womanhood is reaching a higher plane of mental activity; that there is a wider range of human sympathy; that despotism is giving way before the bright sunshine of freedom of thought; that the world is growing better, and that the intellect and the heart enter more and more into every phase of life and its grand possibilities.

Yes, we have reasons innumerable for thankfulness on this Thanksgiving Day of this year of grace 'Ninety-two.

A Problem That Will Be Solved.

The great problem that confronts the democratic party is how to make good the republican waste of the past four years. The democrats, when they retired four years ago, left an immense surplus. They will now return to find Uncle Sam unable to pay his debts.—Zanesville Signal.

The Only Theory.

Everyone wants to know how it happened. It's easy enough, gentlemen, we didn't have the votes. It will be well for the republican party to accept this as the logical reason, and to begin hustling around to get the votes for the next contest.—Fostoria Review.

Alas for the Plans of Mice and Men.

A gerrymander that fails to gerrymander develops a serious condition of affairs. Mentally they may not improve, but physically the average college bred young man is pretty near perfection.—Canton Repository.

A $100 COUNTERFEIT

Caught at the Second National—The Best of Its Kind.

A counterfeit hundred dollar bill was detected at the Second National bank this morning.

"It is one of the best counterfeits I have ever seen, President Davis said to a Bee this mornin.

The bill came from the First National and was returned there and from there will go to the depositor.

It has been floating around town for three or four weeks and can only be detected by an expert.

It has been marked with a small red X on the upper right hand corner. Merchants handling one hundred dollar bills should be very careful until that bogus fellow [illegible].

MRS. MARY BERNHARDT

Goes Into a Toledo Speculation and Fails.

There Are Few Hetty Greenes Among Women.

They Succeed Oftenest in the Business World on Strictly Business Principles.

It developed within a day or two that in the assignment of the Toledo Sienna and Mineral Paint company, located on Summit avenue, that several Toledo ladies have lost considerable sums of money.

Mrs. Mary Bernhardt, of Detroit, seems to be the heaviest loser.

The three principal stockholders were two women and one man.

Mrs. Bernhardt advanced something like $3,000 and got $10,000 of the stock or a third interest.

When the institution collapsed Mrs. Bernhardt was sued for the amount of her stock and judgment against her was given the other day.

It now appears that she, being the only solvent stockholder, will be probably held liable for the total amount of the indebtedness, which is $17,000.

Are women as wildly speculative as men is a question often asked, and quite as often answered in the negative, for it is the general opinion that women are very conservative, and it is often asserted that if a woman once gets her hands on a dollar, wild horses couldn't drag it from her, if she was morally certain that by letting it go, she could get two in return.

This is generally because the majority of women are obliged to give a strict account of their expenditures to father or husband.

If they have money, they have usually procured it for a special purpose and have made that purpose known.

And though the husband may be the most reckless of speculators himself, he would consider his wife stark mad should she ask for money to try her luck with.

Then woman's entire ignorance of the first principles of business makes her cautious of putting her money in hazardous schemes.

More often, unfortunately, does this ignorance make her an easy prey to the unscrupulous, and hundreds of instances could be cited prove this.

Saturday's Bee told the story of the Detroit lady who put $200,000 in the Florida scheme of C. W. McLean.

Millions were to have been made, and doubtless were, by somebody, but the incredulous Detroiter is out just $200,000, the amount invested.

A Toledo lady, who recently reproved another for cynicism, and declared that she would be miserable if she could not put faith in the word of a friend, is doubtless now in that unenviable state, having lost all her property through unwisely investing her money where there was no possible chance of any return, through the advice of the friends of her implicit trust.

It is a sad commentary on humanity, but a successful woman of this city says that she trusts neither friend or foe in business.

She may be as sure of a person's honesty as she is of her own, but before she transacts any business with them, she must know for herself, must see the proof in black and white, that the statements made to her are correct.

She says these are simple business principles, and if they are adhered to, bankruptcy is impossible.

A woman who has been taken care of by the city for 10 years had, 12 years ago, $10,000 in cash.

Her unquestioning confidence in friends induced her to invest it in the hope of doubling the sum, and the consequence is that she is dependent on charity, and will be for the rest of her life.

These cases, of which there are hundreds, prove that women succeed oftenest when they are most conservative.

True, there are successful speculators among women.

Everyone is familiar with the phenomenal success of Hetty Green.

Her indomitable will, cool judgment, and clear foresight, establish her as the equal of the Wall street king, Jay Gould. And, as the Goulds are not plentiful, so is there a scarcity of women of the Hetty Green type.

Having spoken of the unsuccessful women speculators of Detroit, it may not be out of place to mention a woman resident of that city who has made millions in speculation in Montana silver mines.

She is engaged in real estate speculation in Detroit, and has several other irons in the fire.

Her name is Mrs. Clara Macadough, and she is described as being tall and angular of form, with a rather stern visage and a noticeable lack of reverence for anybody or anything, including the almighty dollars, of which she has amassed such a mint.

There are many more successful woman speculators in this country, but sufficient cases have been cited to show that in the world of business, where the education is equal, women succeed quite as often as men, and the lack of judgment is due entirely to the woeful ignorance of business principles, which to many women seem problems too difficult to solve.

THE BRONSON WILL CASE.

The Plaintiff is Introducing Evidence.

Jury Impanelled and Sworn—Opening Statements of Counsel to Jury.

The hearing of the Bronson will case is attracting a large attendance in Judge Lemmon's room of common pleas court.

A struck jury had been demanded, and very little difficulty was had in filling the panel. After two had been excused for cause, the jury as sworn was as follows:

Albert Cook, Henry L. Phelps, Alva J. Olds, Morrough O'Brien, John Fetterman, J. M. Johnson, J. N. Miller, Jacob Kurtz, Dwight Buck, J. W. Russell, Mathew Donovan and Edward Chapin.

As soon as the jury had been secured Judge Cummings made the opening statement of the case to the jury. He stated that the suit had been established by the heirs of Calvin Bronson, deceased, to show cause why his last will and testament should be set aside. He then reviewed in brief the terms of the will; that by the terms of this will the deceased left his entire estate, valued at three-quarters of a million of dollars, to the entire control of one man, without bond or security; that it had been left in such a manner that the direct heirs received a mere pittance annually, and that to be meted out by the trustee.

Judge Cummings continued that the plaintiff would show that Calvin Bronson at the time of his death and long before, was mentally incapable of transacting his own business or directing the construction of a will. That they would show by evidence that the deceased, before his death, was a victim of second-childhood, a breaking down of the brain forces by old age; that he did not recognize his own relatives; that while addressing any member of his family he would stop suddenly, and ask what his or her name was; that Rosewell Messenger, a grandson of the deceased, worked for his grandfather in the morning and kept books for Popp, the liveryman, in the afternoon; that his grandfather would send the young man on some business errand and in a short time afterwards begin inquiring as to his whereabouts, forgetting that he had sent him on business; that he had a mania for making wills; that they would not, perhaps, be able to show how many wills he had made, but would establish the fact; that during his whole life deceased was of a distrustful, suspicious nature in all of his business transactions; that as evidence of the insanity of the deceased, it would be shown that by the tenor of his will he left the whole of the vast estate to the absolute control of a single man, who is an entire stranger to the family, to administer the business of the estate without bond as security.

Mr. Thurston made the statement for the defense. He said it was the old, old story. The man who dies and leaves a small property, his will always stands, but the man who dies and leaves a large property is invariably insane. He briefly reviewed the life of the deceased, showing that he had lived a life of usefulness, and by hard work, stringent attention to business and rigid economy had acquired a great wealth; that he sold milk to the city of Toledo, from door to door; that after he had laid up a little nest egg in this manner, he established himself in a small way in the tobacco business, which under his careful management grew to be one of the most substantial and flourishing enterprises in the state. The defense would show that upon accumulating this immense wealth the deceased did not relinquish the pursuit of business and leave it to others, but up to six weeks of his death attended daily to his own affairs. The law, he said, gave every man the right to dispose of his property at death in any manner that he may see fit, providing he be of sound mind. And the defense would show that Calvin Bronson was of sound mind.

Written for the Bee.

THANKSGIVING.

Thanksgiving day has come again,
The day of praise and blessing,
When friend meets friend, and face to face
Their joys and woes confessing.
They gather 'round the festal board
And strive, with mirth and gladness,
To chase away with words of cheer
The old year's gloom and sadness.

The harvests all are gathered in,
Farm hands are done their husking;
Apples and pumpkins all in rows,
Await Thanksgiving's hustling,
For busy housewife then with care
The pies and tarts are making,
The turkey's dressed and stuffed
With care, the day before its baking.

The first snow of the season's come,
Without the wind is sighing,
But bright within, the fire's aglow,
Its sparks are upward flying,
And joy and comfort tune our hearts
To song, our voices raising
To Him, who all our blessings gave,
In grateful love and praising.

For reason, how much more have we,
Than those poor pilgrims weary,
Who kept the first Thanksgiving day
On Plymouth's shore most dreary.
Little they knew, 'mid prayers and tears
The example they were teaching
Would followed be, o'er all this land
Its utmost limits reaching.

Florette's Dressmaker Visits Paris, the Beautiful,

And Says That Worth Will Dress His Customers in the Latter-Day Empire Style.

Special Correspondence Bee.

New York, Nov. 23.

One of my sketches shows a pretty little mantle in a combination of chamois and dark chestnut velvet, with bands of loosely folded silk in a darker shade of chamois. The center of the mantle is embroidered in dark chestnut stars, and it fastens underneath on the right side. The skirt is of pale gray nun's veiling, bordered with darker gray. With this gown white gloves are worn, and a bonnet trimmed with multi-colored feathers, and edged with pearl gray. The other figure wears an original and becoming toilet, consisting of a gown of gray merveilleux with black velvet sleeves, a very short mantle open in front, and made in black cloth, with a trimming of pale green silk, and a hat of gray surah, trimmed with peacock feathers.

I met a dressmaker just back from Paris. "I made a round of the French houses," she said, "to find out about winter clothes. I began with the leading luminary in matters fashionable, and contemplated the great Worth in all the glory of a sweeping russet mantle thrown over one shoulder and a beret of black velvet jauntily placed on his grizzled locks. He confided that he intended dressing his customers generally in the latter-day empire style, or a revised and modified short-waisted fashion, suitable to every figure. The fourreau of satin, shaped slightly to the waist, by a series of skillful seams, gives a lengthy and elegant appearance to the figure, that round the bust and shoulders is handsomely trimmed with embroidery, wired jet or lace, which plays the part of the graceful and picturesque, outstanding and wing-like collarettes made familiar to us by the celebrated portraits of the Empress Josephine in her coronation robes. This style was shown to me in black velvet, with strips of jet-work running from bust to hem, and forming its voluminous glittering collar. This gown is made to wear over various slips of brilliant color, thus giving a novel appearance each time it is donned. I shall introduce this style among my customers in this city, modifying it in various ways."

IT WAS A SUCCESS.

The Charity Ball Given in Pythian Castle Last Night.

Elegant Music, a Fine Supper and a Royal Good Time Enjoyed By All Present.

The Day Nursery Company Pleased With the Result of the Charming Event—Who Were There and What They Wore.

The Day Nursery company will fully realize their anticipations in regard to the charity ball given last evening at Pythian castle, for it was a success socially and financially.

All thoughts of other entertainments were apparently given up, as many of Toledo's prominent society people were present.

The story of the Day Nursery company has often been told in the columns of the Bee, and it is a fact without question that it merits the success which is sure to attend it. The ladies of the company have been martyrs to the cause which is so worthy.

At the party last evening many rich and attractive costumes were noticed. The matrons for the most part wore black silk and velvet, much rich lace, etc., while the young women were attired in delicate pink, green and various dued faille, silk and chiffon.

The decorations consisted of palms and chrysanthemums, and were donated and arranged by Mrs. Suder. They were beautiful and greatly admired by all present.

The reception committee comprised Mesdames W. W. Bolles, H. M. Bacon, Ira Waldron, Stephen Trowbridge and A. M. Woolson. These ladies very graciously received their guests.

The floor managers were Messrs. Clifford Lamb, Dick Norton, Hubbard Woodbury, Jay Secor, Ed Hubbell, Charles Pheatt, Ed Witker and E. W. Newton.

Miss Olive Colton, attired in a pretty white gown, and Mr. Ralph Holbrook led the grand march.

Wolf's full orchestra furnished enchanting music and the merry dance was enjoyed until the wee' sma' hours. Mrs. D. R. Locke kindly donated the music.

An elegant supper was served from 10 to 12 o'clock.

The following ladies had charge of the different tables, which were beautifully decorated, Mrs. M. A. Scott supervising the entire supper: Mrs. Dr. North, Mrs. Bolles, Miss Pheatt, Mrs. Boardman, Mrs. Waring, Mrs. Marston and Mrs. Dr. Lily.

There were many kind donations for this supper for which the ladies desire to express their thanks. Among the contributors were Judge Pugsley, Mrs. Watson, George Tate, M. Grenzinger and others.

Briggs & Liebius kindly assisted in the decoration, loaning handsome draperies, curtains, etc. Mrs. Boardman was chairman of the committee on decorations.

The street car companies had cars in waiting for the accomodation of the guests until 1 o'clock this morning.

The following ladies had charge of the committees:

Entertainment—Mrs. S. S. Trowbridge.
Supper—Mrs. M. A. Scott.
Finance—Mrs. Robison Locke.
Tickets—Mrs. J. B. Marston.

Great credit is due these ladies and Mrs. M. P. Hubbell for their efficient work and untiring efforts to make the occasion enjoyable. Some of the guests were:

Mrs. Frank J. Scott in a handsome black costume.
Mrs. Frank Williams in a pretty red crepe.
Mrs. Bond Lloyd in a black lace and pink costume.
Mrs. C. J. Woolley, black lace and red gloves.
Mrs. A. E. Macomber.
Mrs. A. B. Tillinghast.
Mrs. Chas. Havland.
Mrs. A. W. Colton, in pretty white crepe.
Mrs. Waring, black silk.
Mrs. Morton Martin, red crepe.
Mrs. Woolson, brown brocade silk, diamonds.
Mrs. G. G. Hadley, black net over lace.
Mrs. S. M. Bolles, green changeable silk.
Mrs. Frank Suydam, black and old rose silk.
Mrs. Trowbridge, black net over red.
Mrs. George Boos, black satin and jet.
Mrs. Harry Haines, black silk.
Mrs. Harry Ashley, handsome pale blue costume.
Mrs. Wilson, figured silk.
Mrs. Robert Dakin, pink and black costume.
Mrs. Ed Baumgardner, Mrs. M. I. Wilcox, Mrs. Bartley, Mrs. Waring, Mrs. Dr. Goodwin, Mrs. Phillips, and the Misses Brainard in black lace.
Maud Drago in yellow silk and lace.
Belle Cummings, pink crepe.
Irene Trost, white gauze and heliotrope.
Kittie Buck, white silk.
Mattie Stebbins, gray costume.
Bess Scott, black and pink gown.
Pauline Mackie, pretty black gown.
Jessie Perigo, green silk.
Maud Wood, black silk.
Zoe Moore, in figured mulle.
Grace Kinney, in pink silk.
Carrie Berry Phelps, black lace.
Gertrude Knight.
Lelia Brown, in light blue.

Cora Orwig, Jessie Carpenter, Harriet Clark, Florence Boos, Mary Whitaker, Laura Thorne, Alice Campbell, Miss Converse of Cleveland, Miss McIntire of Chillicothe, Minnie Schlingman, Eva Bond, Miss Feckers.

Among the gentlemen present were Messrs. Frank Zahm, C. J. Woolley, Dr. Goodwin, Ed. Baumgardner, Dr. Thorn, M. Prosser, Stephen Trowbridge, Joe Cooper, M. Watts, E. C. Spayd, E. D. Moore, Ed. CRY FOR REFORM.

Discussion of Methods to Reach Her Desire.

Reasons Given for Change in City Government.

Diversity of Opinion as to Plans and Purposes.

The Mayor's Meeting Brings Out a Variety of News From Leading Citizens—Referance To a Non-Partisan Committee.

The meeting called by the mayor to consider the question of reform in the government of the city, proved the interest taken in the matter by leading citizens. There were present Mayor Emmick, J. K. Hamilton, P. H. Dowling, Sylvester Lamb, Dr. W. C. Chapman, C. W. Bond, Hon. C. P. Griffin, David Robison, T. S. Merrell, Calvin Cone, A. M. Woolson, R. H. Coschran, W. H. H. Smith, C. H. Beckham, L. K. Parks, J. W. Caldwell, J. M. Bloomer, C. Schmuhl, S. P. Jermain, Chas. Tual, John J. Jacobi, J. B. Battelle, L. W. Morris, Hon. C. A. Flickinger, A. E. Macomber, M. M. Eppstein, Jacob Englehardt, Judge Lemmon, E. D. Morgan, Ellery Eaton, R. J. Hoffman, A. F. Wendt, H. P. Platt, M. Bartlett, Joel Potter, John Huberich, Wm. Albrecht, T. P. Brown, Phil Hassenzahl, Hon. Jacob Romeis, R. G. W. Foster, T. Leroux, W. F. Robison, D. J. O'Hara, T. J. Southard, Homer Hood, Chas. Pratt, J. S. Kountz, J. G. Morganthaler, J. F. Kumler, W. I. Squire, H. C. Vortriede, B. F. Wade, S. S. Knabenshue, Chas. Eaton, S. W. Bolles, J. R. Miller, L. W. Walker, John O'Connor and Wm. Beatty.

The mayor presided and stated the object of the meeting to be the obtaining of opinions for presentation to a mass meeting to be called later. Mr. Blacque Wilson was chosen secretary.

Hon. C. A. Flickinger was called for and declared the need of change in the form of city government, and his willingness to favor a bill applying the principles of the federal plan to Toledo.

Mr. J. Kent Hamilton wanted some change, but opposed the giving of all city improvements to a board.

Dr. Chapman had diagnosed the case and found the people demanded a change. He advocated concentration, suggesting the appointment by the mayor of heads of departments, these to form a board of control, allowing the city to elect a council, as an advisory board.

Mr. Calvin Cone would have a board of control composed of four men appinted by the circuit court judges, the mayor to be an ex-officio member, he to appoint all heads of departments subject to indorsement by the whole board, the members of the board to be well paid, and to devote their whole time to city business.

Mr. R. J. Hoffman had no trust in a board of control; but would submit general improvements to the vote of the city, and lesser ones to the people of the district affected.

Mr. C. W. Bond was for a board of control, and a council of nine members.

Mr. Charles Pratt advocated the federal plan and suggested a committee of three to draw up details.

Mr. L. K. Parks spoke for business principles in city affairs.

Mr. R. G. W. Foster thought the real defect of the city's government was in not putting the right kind of men in office. He moved for a committee of 20—ten democrats and ten republicans, and was seconded by Hon. C. P. Griffin.

A. E. Macomber was for a small committee, and favored the federal plan with modifications.

Mr. H. P. Platt wanted a consolidated government and the framing of plans by a committee of practical business men.

Mr. Jacob Romeis did not want any municipal board appointed by the governor, and thought 20 too many on the committee and that three was enough.

Mr. George Kirby suggested seven to prepare a bill and submit it to a public meeting.

Mr. W. I. Squire favored a large committee and submission to a vote of the people.

Hon. C. P. Griffin defended the form of government in Toledo as "the best in the country." Publicity in public business was obtained by having two boards. The only trouble was that the council had too much power, part of which should be relegated back to the people direct. The people were safe if they elected the right sort of men to the council. He opposed the centralization idea as running into danger, and wondered what had become of the views of certain men in opposition to "ripper" legislation.

Mr. Hamilton favored the larger committee, and Capt. Dowling opposed it. The question being put, the motion for the committee of 20 was appointed, nem son, and the meeting adjourned.

A FEW REASONS WHY

Toledoans Are Thankful for Blessings Received.

Numerous Widely Different Causes for Their Exuberance.

A Few Thoughts Anent the Day of Turkey Dinners and Chicken Shoots—Interlarded With This, That and the Other.

To-morrow morning when the first gray streaks of dawn struggle through the mists of the historic Maumee, the good housewives will arise and go about their labors, putting the finishing touches on the turkey, filling him up as he was never filled in life, with the various kinds of stuffing with which they are familiar, sewing up his waistcoat and putting him in the oven, from which savory fumes will soon be emitted, telling all that Thanksgiving has surely arrived.

Many will attend services at the various churches, others with blood in their eyes will betake themselves to the outskirts of the town, where they will pop away at inoffensive turkeys and chickens who can't help it if they are tough. Fowls residing along the line of march will instinctively hie themselves away to the most secluded places in their respective back yards.

Little men with big guns and big men with little guns will join in the fray, and the small boy will be there intent on devising plans whereby his body will become the abiding place of scattering shot and bullets. After the shoot many birds will reach the junk shops as old lead. Others still will attend the foot ball match and watch 22 boys pull each other's legs out of joint. All the theaters will be going full blast, afternoon and evening, and there will be parties, dances and social gatherings galore throughout the city.

There is no excuse why everyone should not enjoy a Thanksgiving dinner with turkey retailing at 12 cents, chickens at 9 cents, and duck, woodcock and partridge at proportionate prices. If you can't afford this, remember that when you get enough corn bread it's just as good as pudding, and be thankful you're alive to eat it.

The Bee might go on and tell a great many reasons why everybody should be thankful, but such a multitude of statements would prove burdensome to wade through. Appended, however, are a few reasons credited to various well known people:

George Osborn—Because this is the season he can shoot at live birds.

Gov. Ashley—Because he has a few barrels left after the struggle.

J. K. Hamilton—Because it wasn't him.

Henry Tracey—Because it looks as if there would be an east wind.

Frank Monroe—Because he is arranging for a partner.

Fred Rundell—Because he disposed of that car load of apples.

Charley Griffin—Because he wasn't in the landslide, locally or generally.

Charles Durian—Because he is king of the fireworks brigade.

Sam Backus—Because his new seed ware house is looming up.

James H. Pheatt—Because he made up his mind to get married.

DRUMMER BOYS

Will Hold Their Annual Meeting in Toledo.

Saturday evening, December 3, the annual meeting of the Toledo Traveling Men's association will be held in this city.

The constitution will be revised at this meeting and officers elected for the ensuing year.

Other important business will also be transacted.

WARD NOMINATIONS.

Democrats Put Up Good Men in the First and Fourth.

In the Fourth ward the democrats at their primary nominated Mr. William Gannon for councilman to succeed John Daly, rsigned.

A dozen republicans met quietly and nominated Mr. Joseph Henning. The statement in the Bee yesterday that primaries must be held last evening was a surprise to many.

The First ward democrats met at their wigwam on Erie street with a good attendance. Homer Hood was made chairman and Herbert J. Chittenden secretary. The name of Rudolph P. Mathias was presented and he was nominated by acclamation.

Mr. Mathias was the nominee for the same office last spring and made a good run. He is the well-known painter and with his family has all of his interests in the first ward.

The republicans met at the wigwam. Judge Millard was chairman and Frank H. Tanner secretary. George W. Bills and E. B. Wheeler were named. Mr. Bills withdrew and Mr. Wheeler was nominated by acclamation.

THE WEATHER

For the Past Twenty-Two Years in the Month of December.

The chief of the weather bureau directs the publication of the following data, compiled from the record of observations for the month of December, taken at this station for a period of 22 years.

It is believed that the facts thus set forth will prove of interest to the public, as well as the special student, showing as they do the average and extreme conditions of the more important meteorological elements, and the range within which such variations may be expected to keep during any corresponding month.

Temperature—Mean or normal temperature, 30.7 degrees; the warmest December was that of 1889, with an average of 41.3 degrees; the coldest December was that of 1872, with an average of 20.6 degrees; the highest temperature during any December was 70 degrees on the 29th, 1889; the lowest temperature during any December was 10 degrees on the 29th, 1880.

Precipitation (rain or melted snow)—Average for the month, 2.37 inches; average number of days with .01 of an inch or more, 14; the greatest monthly precipitation was 5.32 inches in 1873; the least monthly precipitation was .64 inches in 1874; the greatest amount of precipitation recorded in any 24 consecutive hours was 1.93 inches on December 3, 1873; the greatest amount of snowfall recorded in 24 consecutive hours (record extending to winter of 1884-5 only) was 4.70 inches on December 30, 1886.

Clouds and Weather—Average number of cloudless days, 5; average number of partly cloudy days, 10; average number of cloudy days, 16.

Wind—The prevailing winds have been from the southwest; the highest velocity of wind during any December was 48 miles on the 16th, 1876, and the 29th, 1889.

RE-INCARNATION.

Annie Besant's Views—A Novel Theory.

The proofs of reincarnation do not amount to a complete and general demonstration, but they establish as strong a presumption as can, in the nature of the case, exist. The theory they support affords the only sufficient explination of the growth and decay of nations, of the facts of individual evolution, of the varying capacities of man, of recurrent cycles in history, of unique human characters. I am content—despite my own certain knowledge that reincarnation is a fact in nature—to present it here as a reasonable working hypothesis, rather than a demonstrated theorem: for I am writing for those who are seeking evidence in the facts of human life and history, and for them it cannot rise above the position of a reasonable hypothesis. Those who know it to be true need no argument from me.

There are some living persons, as well as some not present in earth-life, who remember their own incarnations, and can recall their incidents as they can recall those of their present lives. Memory—which is the link between the varying stages of experience of the conscious being, and which carries with it the sense of individuality and of personality alike—stretches for them through the gateways of past births and deaths, and the nights of death no more break the chain of memory than the nights break it which separate the days of our ordinary life.

Occurrences of their past lives are as real experiences of their living selves as though they had happened a few years agone, and to tell them that they did not have these experiences is a view to them as foolish as if you persisted that the events they passed through 10 years ago happened to somebody else and not to their same selves. They would not debate the question with you, but would just shrug their shoulders and drop the subject, for you cannot argue a man's own experience out of his consciousness. On the other hand, a man's testimony to facts within his own knowledge cannot demonstrate the reality of those facts to a second person, and, therefore, this evidence is not conclusive proof to any one but the experiencer. It is the final certainty of the truth of reincarnation to the person whose memory bears this evidence to his own past; its value to the hearer must depend on that hearer's opinion of the intellectual sanity and moral worth of the speaker. If the speaker be a person of only ordinary sanity in the affairs of every-day life, but of supreme intellectual strength; a person of not only ordinary morality, but of lofty moral purity, veracity and accuracy; under such circumstances his deliberate statement that he remembers incidents of his own life happening, say, some centuries ago, and his relation of these incidents with their local surroundings in detail, would probably have considerable weight with those familiar with his integrity and ability; it is second-hand evidence, but good of its kind.

Proof No. 2 Friday.

Why is it that Strictly Pure White Lead is the best paint?

Because it will outlast all other Paints, make a handsomer finish, give better protection to the wood, and the first cost will be less.

If a color other than white is wanted, tint the paint with the National Lead Co.'s

Pure White Lead Tinting Colors.

These colors are sold in small cans, one pound being sufficient to tint twenty-five pounds of strictly pure White Lead to the desired shade.

Be Careful

to use only old and well-known brands of white lead. The market is flooded with adulterated and "so-called" white leads. The following brands are always strictly pure and are established by the test of years:
ANCHOR (Cincinnati)
ARMSTRONG & McKELVY (Pittsburgh)
BEYMER-BAUMAN (Pittsburgh)
COLLIER (St. Louis)
CORNELL (Buffalo)
DAVIS-CHAMBERS (Pittsburgh)
ECKSTEIN (Cincinnati)
FAHNESTOCK (Pittsburgh)
MORLEY (Cleveland)
RED SEAL (St. Louis)
SHIPMAN (Chicago)
SOUTHERN (St. Louis and Chicago)

These brands of strictly pure White Lead and the National Lead Co.'s Tinting colors are for sale by the best dealers in paints everywhere.

If you are going to paint, it will pay you to send to us for a book containing information that may save you many a dollar; it will only cost you a postal card to do so.

Don't You Know

that you can secure almost immediate relief from Indigestion, and that uncomfortable fullness after meals, by simply taking a dose of Simmons Liver Regulator? Some people think that because it is called Liver Regulator it has nothing to do with Indigestion and the like. It is the inaction of the Liver that causes Indigestion, and that fullness; also Constipation, and those Bilious Headaches. Millions have been made to understand this and have been cured from these troubles by Simmons Liver Regulator—a medicine unfailing and purely vegetable.

From Rev. M. B. Wharton, Baltimore, Md
"It affords me pleasure to add my testimony to the great virtues of Simmons Liver Regulator. I have had experience with it, as occasion demanded, for many years, and regard it as the greatest medicine of the times. So good a medicine deserves universal commendation.

WHAT'S IN THE WIND?

President-Elect Cleveland Needs a Rest.

Political Friends Must Wait for a Time.

Many Lucrative Positions Will Be at the President's Disposal in March.

New York, Nov. 23.—Mr. Cleveland is thinking very strongly of closing his house at 12 Fifty-first street this week and going away for a short time with Mrs. Cleveland and little Ruth. It is probable that the family will remain in New York until after Thanksgiving Day and then go to Lakewood, N. J. Mr. Cleveland has stood the strain of shaking hands with the thousands of democrats who have called on him since November 8, and the importunities of office seekers well, but Mrs. Cleveland needs rest. She is in the best of health apparently, but since the family came to New York her social duties have been continually on the increase, and Mr. Cleveland has, it is said, decided to take her to the pines of New Jersey for a season of rest and recuperation.

He has taken no one into his confidence, however, and may surprise everybody by going to Gray Gables, to Mr. Benedict's home in Connecticut, or on a yachting voyage. Nothing will be known of his destination probably until he gets there.

In the meanwhile gossip is rife as to the president-elect's intentions relative to cabinet and other important appointments A small fraction of the gossip is based on what is considered very good authority. For instance, it is known now that Wm. F. Harrity will surely be given a cabinet portfolio if he cares to assume the responsibilities of that office. It is also pretty well assured that the Hon. Wm. L. Wilson of West Virginia will succeed Attorney General Miller. These two appointments are considered here as being as good as made. As to the other portfolios, little is known at this writing. It can be stated on authority, however, that none of the members of President Cleveland's old cabinet are likely to be chosen this time. Gen. Don M. Dickinson does not care for the postmaster-generalship. He would rather go to the United States senate from Michigan or go on the supreme bench. He may go to the senate and await the latter appointment.

Whitney Holding Off.

The close friends of Wm. C. Whitney say the ex-secretary of the navy will not accept office under President Cleveland, but will remain in private life. Mr. Whitney is understood to cherish a desire to be the democratic candidate for the presidency in 1896, and, according to the best advices at hand, he has decided that he would be handicapped to some extent by going abroad. Mrs. Whitney had about persuaded him, it is said, to take the French mission if President Cleveland offered it to him, when Mr. Whitney changed his mind and decided not to accept office under the president at all. This decision is, of course, subject to a change at any time. The ex-secretary is very reticent on the subject, not caring to commit himself just yet. As to ex-Secretary Bayard, while little is known about his desires in the premises, it is not believed that he will be chosen as President Cleveland's premier. That position will likely be filled by a democrat from New England. Edward J. Phelps of Vermont seems to be the leading candidate for secretary of state. He was summoned to New York last week and had several conferences with Mr. Cleveland, looking, it is said, to his appointment to the portfolio of state. If he does receive the appointment, ex-Secretary Bayard may be sent to the court of St. James. This is only a guess, however, for it may be that the distinguished Delawarean will return to the senate.

There are several candidates in the field for each of the other portfolios and the friends of each have urged their candidate's claims in the last few days. Mr. Cleveland, however, has not come to a decision in regard to either position. It is believed that he has in mind the men whom he wishes to surround himself with, but he will exercise great caution in the selection of each one, seeking to conserve the best interests of the party and of the people, while at the same time surrounding himself with advisers personally agreeable to him.

There are applicants in any quantity for the most important foreign missions. From a financial standpoint these positions are worth twice as much as a cabinet position. The members of the cabinet receive $8,000 per year, while there are a dozen or more foreign missions which pay twice that salary.

Diplomatic Prizes.

The principal foreign missions and consulships which will be vacated in March, with the names and salaries of their present incumbents, follows:

Minister to England, Robert T. Lincoln, $17,500.
Minister to France, T. Jefferson Coolidge, $17,500.
Minister to Russia, Andrew D. White, $17,500.
Minister to Germany, Wm. W. Phelps, $17,500.
Minister to Austria, Fred Grant, $12,000.
Minister to Brazil, E. H. Conger, $12,000.
Minister to China, Charles Denby, $12,000.
Minister to Italy, Wm. Porter, $12,000.
Minister to Japan, vacant, $12,000.
Minister to Mexico, Thomas Ryan, $12,000.
Minister to Spain, A. L. Snowden, $12,000.
Minister to Chili, Patrick Egan, $10,000.
Minister to the Central American Republics, Richard C. Shannon, $10,000.
Minister to Guatemala, R. Pacheco, $10,000.
Minister to Colombia, J. T. Abbott, $10,000.
Minister to Peru, John Hicks, $10,000.
Minister to Turkey, D. T. Thompson, $10,000.
Minister to Belgium, E. W. Terrill, $7,500.
Minister to Denmark, C. E. Carr, $7,500.
Minister to Hawaii, J. L. Stevens, $7,500.
Minister to Corea, Aug. Heard, $7,500.
Minister to Netherlands, S. R. Thayer, $7,500.
Minister to Paraguay, George Maney, $7,500.
Minister to Sweden, W. W. Thomas, $7,500.

This list includes only the first, second, third and fourth class missions, but to this list any number of $5,000 missions are to be added. They include those to Bolivia, Greece, Hayti, Liberia, Switzerland, Siam, Persia and Portugal.

Rich Consulships.

But there is more money in consulates even than missions. A consulship is strictly a commercial office, and while in many cases the salaries are not large the perquisites are immense. The highest consular salary paid is $6,000. The consuls general at London, Paris, Liverpool, Havana and Rio Janeiro receive this salary, but they each make from $15,000 to $25,000 a year outside of their salary. There are 83 of these consulships and consul generalships to be handed over to the democratic leaders after March 4. There will be sufficient to go around, no doubt, but if there is not those citizens who desire to serve their country without braving mal de mer, sharks or sea serpents will have any number of good offices to try for at home.

In making appointments to the above-mentioned offices geography will cut quite a figure. It will be sought to meet the just claims of the party in all parts of the country and make a fair division all around.

The most distinguished visitor of the day was Thomas F. Bayard, of Delaware. He dined with the president-elect and spent two hours with him in private conversation in the afternoon. Mrs. Cleveland attended the Central Presbyterian church in the morning and listened to a sermon by Rev. Wilton Merle Smith.

A Book Women Can Appreciate.

"Successful Home Dyeing" is a handsomely illustrated book of 32 pages, that tells in a clear and practical way how to make the old gowns, cloaks and suits look new by coloring with Diamond Dyes. Ask your druggist for one, as this book is furnished him free to give to his customers. Call early before his supply is gone, but if he has none left ask him to write to Diamond Dyes for more.

SECOND-CLASS POSTAGE.

Suggestions to Congress Concerning Second-Class Matter Under the Postal Law.

The terms and conditions of the law should be so definite as to be easily understood. It should permit the postmaster-general to construe it as he does at present, according to his own individual wishes. Favoritism and oppression have both been practiced in this particular by the present postmaster-general. This statement is susceptible to positive proof. An opportunity for such arbitrary rulings should be made impossible.

Suggestions to the Post-Office Department.

Inquiries as to what the law is should receive definite and comprehensive answers, supported by a propper preference to the sections referred to, and, if possible, by decisions and regulations bearing upon the questions under consideration. At present inquiries are answered in such a vague way that the publisher making them is still in the dark, even after the answer, if one is made, comes to hand.

All decisions once made should be treated as precedents in future cases or until overruled, and all decisions upon similar statements of facts should be uniform and consistent.

Decisions that may be of general or special interest should be published in the Postal Guide.

Questions for the Departmnet to Consider.

If there appears ground for withdrawing from a publisher the right to second-class rates, why not notify him thereof and state the grounds for teproposed action before making the order? Why issue a decree before the cause has been heard?

Why in this way subject a publisher to troubl and expense, including a trip to Washington to obtain a reversal of the decree, which never would have been issued had the facts been considered at the proper time?

Why permit under-clerks of no reputation and less responsibility to issue unlawful decrees in such a star chamber way as to bring disgrace upon the department, and to make congressional, political and pecuniary influence appear more potent factors than the rights of a citizen or a regard for justice.

'TWAS A MISFIT.

A Minister's Wife Plays Double With Him.

She Runs Away and Lives a Life of Shame With Wild West Bill.

New York, Nov. 23.—A London dispatch says: "Wild West Bill," an alleged cow-boy, now living in Chicago, and whose real name is said to be William Ruhmor, figures as one of the principals in a divorce case just tried before Sir Francis Jeune, and in which the decree was granted to-day. The case was an extraordinary one in many particulars. The aggrieved husband was W. H. Schoolcroft, an American by birth, who came to this country three years ago, and is now a minister of the Church of England. According to his story he met his wife on Regent street, London, while on a visit to this country in 1881. She was then living a questionable life. He took pity on her, and finally made her his wife. Some little time after he took her to the United States, where her actions were not altogether those of a reputable woman.

Later they went to Heidelberg, Germany, where the husband engaged in theological studies; but here her conduct with the students of the university became so exceedingly questionable that they were compelled to leave the place and return to England.

Finally they separated, the husband allowing her $150 monthly, until he received a letter from his wife saying that she never proposed to live with him again. Evidence taken on commission in the United States, and which was submitted to the court, proved that the wife was living with Wild West Bill as his wife in Chicago, and upon this showing Judge Jeune had no hesitation whatever in granting the decree.

WITH ANOTHER MAN.

Two English Elopers in This Country.

Very Natural That the City of Chicago Should Be Searched for Them.

New York, Nov. 23.—An eloping couple whose disappearance from London, England, has created something of a sensation, in certain circles of that city, are being searched for high and low in this city and Brooklyn.

The man is W. Graves, until recently chief superintendent of the Hampstead workhouse, while the woman in the case is Miss Annie Lyons, assistant matron of the same institution.

A few weeks ago Graves applied to the board of guardians for a week's leave of absence, and on the same day Miss Lyons left the institution for the purpose, as she said, of spending the afternoon with some friends.

Neither of them, however, returned, and investigation developed the fact that after staying at the Charing Cross hotel as man and wife for a couple of days, they had taken a steamer for this country. Graves' wife, who is matron of the institution, has been compelled to resign her appointment as an outcome of his action.

A RACE IS CERTAIN.

Dunraven is After the America's Cup.

A Formal Challenge Will Be Made Public In a Few Days.

New York, Nov. 23.—The committee of five appointed by the New York Yacht club to conduct the matter of arranging a race for the America's cup met to consider the letter recently received from Dunraven.

In his letter, which is made public today, Lord Dunraven says that on the general terms for the race both sides seem to agree, and thinks that the details for a race can be easily arranged.

Lord Dunraven agrees to the proviso of the New York Yacht club that no yacht now existing in course of construction shall be debarred or penalized. He agrees if he wins the cup to leave it open to a challenge under the same conditions as those under which he challenges. Lord Dunraven concludes by saying that he trusts that a challenge on the modified terms would be accepted. As Lord Dunraven has now virtually agreed to the conditions of the New York Yacht club, a formal challenge may be looked for from him in a few days.

ADVISORY BOARD.

Homestead, Pa., Nov. 23.—The official existence of the strikers' famous advisory board was ended at a meeting held last night.

Applications for reinstatement continue to-day in increased numbers.

The officials seem inclined to be considerate and it is now thought probable that a much larger proportion of the strikers will be re-employed than was thought possible.

A LION STORY

About Col. Boone Who Is Playing in Toledo.

He Has Seven Wonderful Lions—How He Took the Silver from Romeo's Foot and Made Them Fast Friends.

Col. Boone has been in Toledo before. He and his lions were the feature of Forepaugh's circus. The colonel is with "Under the Lion's Paw" at the People's. He has a great affection for the lions under his care. For the largest of all, in particular, he has a love that is only felt for animals by men who thoroughly understand their ways. The name of this very large lion is Romeo. He is a grand animal, with the strength of two ordinary lions, but with a love of his master that is absolutely touching. The reason of this affection is a somewhat romantic one. One day, about two years ago, Romeo became almost maddened with rage. He was in his steel-barred cage alone, and it was well that it was so. He raved up and down, banged his burly form against the bars, and roared in a mighty way that fairly shook the building. The keeper, who had been cleaning the cages and doing other work about the big room—for the lions were in winter quarters at the time—was afraid to go too near Romeo's cage. There was no fear of his escaping, for the cages are made too strong for that possibility, but there was something so terrific in the terrible rage of the king of beasts that one involuntarily felt horror at the base thought of being near him. Col. Boone was not in the building, but everyone knew that he was the only man who could hope to deal with the infuriated beast. Messengers were sent in all directions for him, and finally he was found.

He heard the roars of the lion when within a block of the building, and his expression became rather more grave. Something wrong, sure," he muttered. He saw Romeo bouncing from one end to the other of his cage, roaring like a thousand devils, and he knew there was work before him. One of the keepers had procured an iron bar, and was about to poke it through the bars of the cage at Romeo, but the colonel snatched it from him, as with brow black as night, he threatened to brain the man with the bar if he ever caught him ill-treating one of the lions. The colonel threw off his overcoat, following it with his under coat and vest. Then he took the light whip with which he controls the lions in their performance, and went to the door of the cage. "You are not going in there, are you?" "I certainly am," answered Col. Boone, as, with a deft movement, he swung open the door of the cage, and, entering, closed it quickly after him. Romeo was rushing up and down the cage, uttering his terrific roars, but it was noticed that he always avoided a collision with Col. Boone, mad as he appeared to be. The colonel watched him for a few moments, and then a smile of intelligence passed over his face. "Romeo!"

The lion took no notice of the word, but continued his cavorting up and down the cage. "Romeo!" This time in a louder tone. The lion stopped and glared at the colonel. Then he crouched, and slowly crawled toward the man whom he was accustomed to obey. "Lie down!" was the next command, accompanied by a light touch of the whip. Romeo lay down in a cumbersome fashion, and Colonel Boone seized one of the great forepaws, while the roar of the lion became a rumbling growl. "Just what I thought," observed the colonel as he took a formidable jack-knife from his pocket, and opened the point, like a dagger. Holding the paw firmly between his knees, he applied the point of the knife to it, and provoked a response in the shape a convulsive movement, and a shriek that was almost human in its agony. At the same time the colonel held up a long sliver of wood that had come from the floor of the cage, and showed it to the trembling spectators. "No wonder he was mad," remarked the colonel, coolly. "Wouldn't you be mad with four inches of jagged hickory in your foot?" The lion lay still till he was ordered to get up. Then he crawled closer to Col. Boone, and opening his great mouth, licked the hand of the man who had relieved him of his pain. Romeo gets excited sometimes, so that only one man can handle him. That man is Col. Boone, and a word from him will tame the great beast in an instant.

THE SMOKE QUESTION:

Mr. E. S. Griffith Enlarges on Views Formerly Expressed.

To the Editor:—Owing to the very generous and complimentary reference in your issue of the 18th inst., to certain remarks made by me at a meeting held at the office of the Woolson Spice Co. recently, at which was represented the major part of the industrial and commercial worth of our city, called for the purpose of considering the matter of smoke prevention, together with an extended article in the same issue of your paper signed "Manufacturer," I submit the following for publication provided you should deem it of any importance or value in simplifying so complex a question as smoke prevention:

Realizing as I do that there is no problem challenging the best efforts of the inventor or the investigator which is more difficult of solution than that of the complete combustion of any of our ordinary fuels—and also that there is probably no open sea which presents more bland and pacific allurements to the confident but unpractical navigator who would essay to launch his little bark of hopeful speculation upon it only to be suddenly engulfed by its treacherous sub-currents, perchance, before it has gotten fairly out of port. I confess I now labor under much trepidation born of many luckless voyages in attempting at this time to indicate the location of the true polar star without which all efforts at exploration must be futile or of little worth, and I humbly acknowledge that what I say here is not woolly unmingled with a fear that in certain ways I may still be going to school to my own mistakes.

If there is anything which is more deeply imprinted than another upon every vestige of our material universe it is the word law.

If there is any law which is irrevocable in governing the behavior of elements in creating by their union new compounds, it is the law of proportion.

If there is any law which tolerates no evasion or error and which gives definition to the products of that union it is the law of quantity.

If there is a law which permits no cunning nor subterfuge in giving character and property to the new born product it is the law of quality.

If there is anything which stands as the unalterable foundation of our material intellectual or spiritual advancement it is the apprehension of those laws, as to their force and application to the full measure that our feeble understanding will permit.

If there is anything which determines the extent to which we plunge into the depths of disastrous and fatal error, it is the measure of our ignorance of the true and positive operation of those laws.

By way of illustration and in order to demonstrate the prevalence of misapprehension, if not ignorance, concerning problems about which the average mortal considers he possesses all the information which is necessary, although I am aware in offering it that it is somewhat foreign to the specific matter I desire to discuss, but it being a subject affecting so directly the personality of each and every one of us, and about which most of us remain in blissful unconsciousness that I can not refrain from alluding to it.

There is probably no person of intelligence who would not resent in his own way the imputation that he knew substantially nothing of his own family history.

It is common, and an easy matter for a man to conjure to himself that he could, were he disposed, trace his lineage to the period of some of our more modern kings and queens, but how contemptible is such a vaunted knowledge in contemplation of whom preceded them.

Did it ever strike you, Mr. Editor, as true, in order that you or I or anyone, should exist to-day that we are the final individual progeny of one hundred and ninety three million—million—forefathers and formothers, since the time of Christ, some 1892 years ago? In order that each one of us should be in the flesh to-day he or she can boast of that number of progenitors. Do I hear anyone exclaim now that he in fact knows substantially anything of this family history?

Now in the light of such facts is it strange that we should often see in the public prints an expression of egregious misconceptions concerning more obstruce problems which appeal with far less directness to our individual understanding, such as the problem of combustion which Mr. Manufacturer attempts to discuss.

I believe it is a law or rule of evidence laid down by Greenleaf that if a witness is shown to have been mistaken as to any material fact in a chain of evidence he may be mistaken as to all other material facts, and his credibility as to the whole may be attacked on the ground that he was in error as to a part, therefore I will forbear any reference to any other part of Mr. Manufacturer's article which may or may not bear the same impress of flagrant error, by citing but one connected statement which he makes in his effort to show the practicability of certain apparatus and modes of promoting combustion and dispensing with the common attendant smoke. He says: "That in the formation in these chimneys of deleterious gases, namely, carbon, dioxide, chemical experts who have tested these smokeless chimneys declare there is no evidence of this, or other noxious gases whatever. There are many devices for the consumption of smoke, some of them useless and some of them dangerous, and it is well that manufacturers should go carefully in experimenting."

I would suggest the addendum to the foregoing admonition to manufacturers in order to have it of any value, that manufacturers go carefully in taking other manufacturers advice on such subjects.

Now what strength has the claim of Mr. Manufacturer, since it is a law of nature, and hence a law of God, that it requires 32 parts by weight of the gas oxygen to consume 12 parts of carbon, that the product of that combustion shall be 44 parts by weight of carbon binoxide, the very deleterious gas which Mr. Manufacturer denies the existence of at all. In other words to consume twelve hundred weight of carbon it requires thirty-two hundred weight of the gas oxygen and the product of that operation shall be forty-four hundred weight of gas called carbon binoxide. Saying nothing of this, there is still another deleterious gas which is discharged which Mr. M. denies the existence of, when in fact there is 12,800 pounds of nitrogen discharged into the atmosphere for every 1,200 pounds of carbon burned. In this connection I may add that nitrogen is one of the active putrefying agents in all forms of animal decaying matter, the more plentiful it abounds in the original substance the more offensive the smell. If proof of this latter fact is necessary I will hint to Mr. M. to recall his experiences when admonished by his alfactories that there was a rotten snake or turtle within sensible distance.

I would further say kindly to Mr. M. that I have no desire to produce smoke of any kind in taking this matter up, but simply to express my individual views as derived from data that will stand the test of law, knowing that the information derived by him from the chemical experts he refers to is untrustworthy, while the latter are false prophets and in no sense worthy to be quoted for purposes of popular enlightenment through your columns.

E. S. GRIFFITH.

THANKSGIVING.

To the editor:—We have been going around for a week in the rain and mud, so come with me to-night, it will seem good to sit down by the fire and toast our toes, and talk over what we should be thankful for.

What a grand place an open fire is; it throws its flickering lights and shadows about the room until we seem to see household fairies start into life through the cheerful glow, clad in robes of azure flame and beam upon us with bright faces, yet showing as many changeful moods. The imaginary beings we see in such fires seem to join hands and dance the German for us all until we take the tongs and rouse them to some other fancy.

Who is it that could not be thankful for such a home, and couldn't arouse their fancy under similar circumstances, and build the castles now and then that even Spain might be proud of.

And what a time to talk of Thanksgiving, and of what we will do for some one less fortunate than ourselves to make them happy, as we know we can, by one act of kind remembrance from us to them.

I remember a Thanksgiving day, spent in a lovely border city a few years ago, and it was on that day the little incident of which I write occurred.

The day was bright and cheery, no feathery snow or dazzling frost; work had as yet filled the winter day with azone, and after the last drive through "Furnum street" and a last look at the magnificent "New York Life Insurance building," looming up so grandly toward heaven, we were ready to leave "Omaha" for the incoming evening trains, with their long lines of curling smoke, warned us not to be too long on the way.

We soon reached the depot on Webster street, and as we entered the waiting room the sound I heard I think I shall always hear. In one corner of the room was a little object, about which men and boys would gather and watch its struggles, yet seemed powerless to offer any assistance.

Occasionally a great big blue coated policeman would walk in, then out again, as much as to say, "next time I come in I'll do something myself." But he was not sure of his authority over a crying baby three years old. It remained for a mother who had given over to the angels the care of her own baby boy—as one "touch of nature makes the whole world kin," so, from a group of ladies came a little, black-eyed woman. She walked up to the dark, pinched little object, as he lay pillowed on a dirty bundle, and asked the father what ailed the little one. He answered in his gruff way, as he sat quietly smoking his Holland Dutch pipe, and an expression on his face like an English pug dog, "Oh, he cross," he muttered; "he wand someding, I done know what."

The dear, good lady takes her handkerchief, wipes the little dirty face, all grinned with soil and tear stains, and with her gentle fingers smoothes his disarranged curls, and the little fellow, in his astonishment at kindness coming to him from any source whatever, looks up into her face and smiles and reaches out his tiny little hand to her. And I thought how grand a sight it must be to the angels in heaven to look down upon one who was not afaid to gather that little tangled head to her breast or bestow a loving touch to that little motherless boy, who will never know the sunshine and love a mother's touch always brings.

How many of us are happy to-day and can be thankful that we have good homes and that the family circle is unbroken by death. That around our table every bright, sweet face is in its place, and Thanksgiving to us all is the happiest holiday of all the year.

THINGS TO BE THANKFUL FOR.

What King's Boy, Solomon, Has to Say.

In the special market report of C. A. King & Co., issued yesterday, "Our Boy Solomon" has this to say on Thanksgiving:

Farmers should thank Providence for another bountiful season; also speculators for taking their enormous offerings of wheat and now paying over $1,000,000 monthly for the privilege of carrying the visible supply until it's wanted for consumption or export. They should thank congress that the Hatch bill did not pass and leave them at the mercy of the Washburn-Pillsbury syndicate and foreigners, as they would have received much less than the present low prices. They should thank the clover seed trade here for helping to advance the price of that.

Interior shippers should give thanks, as the season might have been worse.

Millers should be thankful for a favorable season. The low prices have enabled them to export more flour than last season.

DESIRES TO BEAR TESTIMONY.

Henry Thorne, traveling secretary of the Y. M. C. A., writes from Exeter Hall, Strand, London, February 2, 1888: "I desire to bear my testimony to the value of Allcock's Porous Plasters. I have used them for pains in the back and side arising from rheumatic and other causes never without deriving benefit from their application. They are easily applied and very comforting. Those engaged as I am in public work which involves sudden changes in temperature, will do well to keep a supply of Allcock's Porous Plasters in their portmanteaus."

Big Wheat Supply.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 23.—The discovery has just been made that the wheat crop of Minnesota and the Dakotas is many million bushels above all estimates.

The receipts yesterday at Minneapolis were over 1,100 cars, the heaviest day's business of the season, but on many other days during the past month receipts have run up to nearly 1,000 cars.

Grain men don't know what to do about the situation. They are all at sea regarding what they are to expect. They have been estimating the crop at from 85,000,000 to 105,000,000 for the three big wheat states, but they are all beginning to hedge now. Those who put their figures at 100,000,000 have added from 10,000,000 to 20,000,000 more and those who figured higher than that originally have gone up as high of 130,000,000 or more now.

On the basis of the receipts up to date they cannot do anything else and be at all consistent with their previous philosophy. One prominent elevator manager who started the season with a very modest estimate, has pushed it up to the 130,000,000 mark already, and declares that in his honest belief he will have to add a few millions more before he gets through.

FEDERAL COURTS.

Amended Answers of the City in Several Cases.

The city of Toledo to-day filed in the United States court amended answers in the cases brought by the American Tube & Iron company, the Jarecki Manufacturing company and the Chester Pipe & Tube company, for payment for supplies furnished the natural gas trustees. The burden of these answers is that only by the act of January, 1889, granting power to issue $750,000 of bonds, has the city power to expend money for natural gas purposes other than to pay running expenses of the natural gas plant, and for laying pipes; that at the time the alleged contracts were made there was no money in the treasury to the credit of the natural gas fund, or any other fund from which to pay the amounts alleged due; and that the alleged contracts are ultra vivis. The answers accord with the last decision of the circuit court in the matter of the bonds.

Judge Ricks has issued orders authorizing Otho L. Hays, receiver of the Lima National bank, to quit claim property in Cook county, Illinois, which property was deeded to the bank as security for indebtedness which has been transferred to O. M. Stafford, of Cleveland, by order of the court; and to sell and assign a judgment for $6,268.30 against the C., L. & M. Railway company to Mr. Stafford, on his proposition of purchase.

Subpoenas have been issued for 49 witnesses before the United States grand jury. One of those witnesses lives in Duchess county, New York.

Judge Taft, United States circuit judge, will be in attendance during the latter part of the first week or the first part of the second week of the December term of court, and assist Judge Ricks in the trial of causes. Those who have cases to come up for hearing at this time will see that they are promptly ready for trial as assigned.

A BUNCH OF DATES.

Important Meeting Saturday Afternoon.

Friday the Ladies' Sewing society of the First Baptist church will hold an all-day meeting for the purpose of completing arrangements for the Christmas sale and supper, to be given by them the first week in December.

The Colloquial club meets Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Rosa L. Segur, 916 Broadway. Among other subjects of discussion will be the question as to whether a married woman has the right to earn money, and the much-disputed question of corporal punishment.

On Saturday afternoon, in the office of the Woman's Recorder, Worthington block, will be held the fortnightly meeting of the Woman's Building committee. For various reasons these meetings have lately had a very poor attendance, and interest and enthusiasm have been at the lowest ebb. The cause of this may be, partly, that some of the best workers have been out of the city and others have been detained at home by sickness.

The return of the chairman of the committee, Miss Bouton, may arouse the energies of those who have been apparently indifferent, and it is the belief of several of the ladies who have sold stock, that energy is the one thing needful to make this building a success.

Whether or not this is true, it is desirable to have a full attendance of the committee, and one representative, at least, of the incorporators.

Several matters will be discussed, and those who are interested enough to wish to have a voice or vote, must be present.

DAY OF THANKSGIVING

For the Poor We Have Always With Us.

Through the Kindness of the Charitable the Hungry Will Be Fed.

Excellent dinners will be given to-morrow in most of the charitable institutions of the city, and besides these, many of the poor people will be given dinners that will make the day one of thanksgiving, indeed.

At the Lucas County Children's home the usual bountiful dinner will be given, with a few extras, such as turkey, pumpkin pie and the like, in honor of the day.

At the Protestant Orphans' home a splend'd Thanksgiving dinner will be given the children and there will be recitations, and music.

At the free kindergarten, on Adams street, a bountiful dinner will be given the little ones to-morrow, and the children of the Y's kindergarten in the Helping Hand mission will be served likewise.

Besides providing a dinner for the kindergartners, the Ys have provided 30 dinners for poor people, who would otherwise, perhaps, go hungry.

The dinner includes everything that a Thanksgiving dinner should, and the young women of this organization deserve much credit for their arduous work and the good results.

At the Boys' home there will be a genuine old-fashioned Thanksgiving, and a royal time is expected.

The Girls' Industrial school and the free kindergarten, in connection, will celebrate Thanksgiving appropriately and give thanks for the good things provided.

At the Protestant hospital an elaborate dinner and all the delicacies of the season will be provided.

At St. Vincent's the little ones will be given a Thanksgiving dinner, but there will be no especial entertainment.

The babies of the Day nursery circle will be provided with a dinner such as they perhaps have never known before.

Much good has been done in a quiet way by the King's Daughters and the Christian Endeavor societies.

The Endeavors will have a union sunrise prayer meeting in the First Congregational church.

The ladies of the various societies of Trinity church have provided good things for the poor of the parish and have done many acts of charity in a quiet unostentatious way.

It seems that the people of Toledo have solved the real secret of happiness and thanksgiving by providing for those who are unable to provide for themselves.

COAL PICKERS.

Four Little Lads Before the Police Judge.

The principal case heard by Judge Sala this morning was that against George Gampher, Charley Schlagel and Frank and Orene Teneyck, charged with the theft of coal from the yard of A. S. Bement. The value of the coal taken was 60 cents, and the boys had picked it off the ground. It was shown that the teamsters were in the habit of getting boys to help pick up coal and allowing them to take some away as pay. The Gampher boy, the oldest of the four, is only about 12, and the smallest Teneyck boy not quite 7. Young Schlagel, a District messenger boy, had frequently been given coal for picking it up, and for this reason had returned the money given him by one witness to purchase some. The judge recited these facts, advised the boys not to take any more coal on the word of the employes and discharged them.

Charles McKay acknowledged that he was drunk and was assessed the costs.

Henry Wolf, who has now two cases against him for having and offering for sale impure meat, had both continued till Friday.

James Croy on failure to give bond for the care of his family was called on to pay costs and given three months in the workhouse.

Frank Crall, who had signed such a bond, was brought up on a second charge. His case was continued till Monday.

The case of Oscar Schup, charged by Adelbert Wesolek with assault and battery, was continued till Friday. He is a bricklayer, residing at 1920 Ontario street. He was arrested last evening by Officer Tilton and released on bond.

John Mescal, whose case for assault and battery had been continued, was fined $5 and costs.

The case of petit larceny angainst O. S. Simmons, and those against Friese and Willard were continued till Friday, on motion of the state.

The detectives' room is being repapered, and the woodwork throughout the old police building revarnished.

BLACKWELL'S BULL DURHAM SMOKING TOBACCO.

I'm an old smoker, and have at one time or another tried all the different Smoking Tobaccos, but for a good smoke Bull Durham beats 'em all.

A leading characteristic of Bull Durham has always been the hold which it takes on old and fastidious smokers. What its excellence first secured, its uniformity has always retained, and it is, therefore, to-day as twenty-five years ago, the most popular Smoking Tobacco in the world.

THE COLONEL.

An Amusing Story of a Very Voracious Pet Owl.

My acquaintance with him began when there was brought to me a fluffy, white ball, nearly as big as my head, with a pair of big, bright round eyes that seemed full of wonderment at his new surroundings. He had been found on a ledge of rock in the canyon, among some sticks that answered for a nest, his sole companions being the remains of a jack rabbit and an egg that had refused to transform into a second owlet.

He must have been quite young, as no signs of feathers were visible. The heavy coating of down formed a frill about his face and gave him a very wise and venerable look. We dubbed him Colonel and took a great interest in watching the development of our pet.

In a few weeks he began to try his wings, and we tied him with a long cord, putting a small chain next his legs, for he would cut the cord as fast as it was put on. When fully feathered he was of a light yellowish brown color and measured about four feet from tip to tip of wings.

When at last some dainty was secured and temptingly presented, the capacious mouth would fly open while the eyes closed—there was not room enough for both to expand at the same time—and squirrel or chicken would disappear with a gulp. It was a source of never-ending wonderment that articles of such size and number could go into even that huge orifice. Some days after his arrival, our little three-year-old asked anxiously: "Mamma, could he swallow the baby?"

One fateful day his hungry squall ceased without any interruption, and the fragment of a chicken wing told how his appetite had been appeased. Alas, for the chicken! Alas, for bird! That was the signal for his banishment from the farm. When the time approached for his departure he became frightened at the unusual bustle and flew to the end of his rope. It snapped, and for the first time in his life he was a free bird, soaring aloft in his native element. Round and round he flew, as if loth to leave the only home of his remembrance.

Fully realizing that the colonel at liberty would be much more dangerous to the poultry interest than the colonel in chains, I tried with most persuasive tones to lure him back. Mindful of the hand that fed him, he came nearer and nearer, then sailed to the ground a short distance from me and waited for the expected bite.

He was soon a captive again, but not until I had received some scratches that kept my pet in vivid remembrance during the first weeks of his absence.

He now lives in close proximity to a butcher shop, where he never lacks for fare to suit his fancy. Age and confinement have soured his temper, until woe befalls the hand that dares intrude between the bars of his cage.—Philadelphia Times.

The fall of the year is a trying season for elderly people. The many cheerless, dark, dismal days act depressingly, not to say injuriously, on both old and young. Now is the time to re-enforce the vital energies with Ayer's Sarsaparilla—the best of all blood medicines.

MOORISH SLAVERY.

It would do those good who write passionate articles on Moorish slavery to see the well-fed lazy slave of Wazan lounging in the sun, kiff pipe in mouth, and scarcely doing a stroke of work from week's end to week's end. The most ordinary English kitchen maid would accomplish in a couple of hours what a Wazan slave does in a week. All are free to come and go as they please, but none avail themselves of this freedom. The reason is not far to seek. In Wazan they are fed and clothed by the sheereefs, and on holidays and feast days receive presents of money.

Thus all the necessities of life are found them without their having to work for them, which otherwise they would be obliged to do. Nor is it only the necessities of life that are thus supplied to them free, but they are given each his room to live in and married at the expense of the sheereefs to slave women. Their children, by law slaves, are not necessarily so, and are often apprenticed to workmen to learn some trade, or if they wish they are free to seek their fortunes in other lands—Blackwood's Magazine.

IN OLDEN TIMES

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action, but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

THE FLOWER GIRL.

The cold wind nipping at her feet,
She loiters in the busy street
Forlorn and lonely,
And proffers there with wistful eye
Pale blossoms to the passers-by—
A flower girl only.

Yet never has her young life known
The dells and valleys where have blown
The flowers she fingers.
She knows not of the charms that cling
About the woodland ways, when Spring
On Summer lingers.

Her little foot has never pressed
The dewdrop on the gowan's breast
At eve or morning;
Nor did she ever yet behold
The genial Autumn's fruitful gold,
The plains adorning.

The lilies that she holds for sale
Are not, in sooth, so sickly pale
As her young face is—
A face that speaketh eloquent
Of life in thrall of poortith spent
Down sunless places.

She sees not in the flowers she sells
Young April twinkling on the fells
Or in the wild wood;
But we, to whom they speak of spring,
May here some bit of sunshine bring
To cheer her childhood.

TERRIBLE ITCHING

Used Everything Five Months—In Three Weeks not a Scar or Pimple—Cured by Cuticura.

When my baby was three months old his cheeks and forehead began to break out with white pimples on red surface. In a few days itching commenced, which was terrible. After he would rub it, matter would ooze from the points. In a short time it spread over the top of his head, then scabs soon formed on head and face. We used everything we could hear of for nearly five months. It grew worse all the time. I saw your advertisement of the CUTICURA REMEDIES in the "Chicago Weekly." We purchased CUTICURA REMEDIES and commenced their use. In three weeks' time there was not a sore or pimple, not even a scar, on head or face. He is nineteen months old now, and has no signs of the disease. His scalp is healthy and he has a beautiful head of hair. (See portrait herewith.)
MRS. OSCAR JAMES, Woodston, Kan.

My infant, eighteen months old, was afflicted with skin eruptions on his hips Bad sores came on other parts. All remedies failed until I procured CUTICURA. Cured a year and no return of disease.

Thanksgiving Excursions Over the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railway.

Conforming to customs of the past in the observance of Thanksgiving day, the Wheeling & Lake Erie railway fails not in showing its appreciation of the many favors extended by its patrons during the past year, and as an acknowledgement of the obligations resting upon it, offers to those desiring, the use of its road in traveling to and from their Thanksgiving feasts, Excursion Tickets at Half Rates, Wednesday and Thursday, November 23 and 24, with the privilege of returning as late as Friday, November 25, 1892.

All agents of this company are instructed to comply with this notice and cause all to feel that we respect the day, and forget not those seeking the way to join in its observance. JAMES M. HALL,
General Passenger Agent.

SOME ECONOMICAL PEOPLE.

It is a strange truth in the great doctrine of social economy that it is the rich who are thrifty. And yet it is not so strange either since thrift is an accomplishment, not as elegant perhaps, but as difficult as piano playing. It is more useful as an attainment, but not as a rule to the people who acquire it. They do not need it, but those who have no facilities for learning it do. This sounds very satirical, but it arises from a series of burning injuries piled, Ossa upon Pelion-like, by "dainty little ladies" (all these economists are little, you may have noticed) who talk for print about their infinitesimal incomes and how they lay them out to the best advantage. Their mothers are at home scrubbing or wearing their eyes out with needlework. I know, while their daughters are flaunting about getting bargains and prating of their wonderful achievements.—Chicago Post.

BATHING A TRAMP.

He Was Treated to a Shower Bath at Sixty Miles an Hour.

"Did you ever see a tramp take a bath?" said the baggage master on the "Congressional Limited" a short distance beyond Trenton

"I never did," replied a reporter who was smoking on a box.

"Would you like to witness such a spectacle?"

"It might be interesting, I should imagine. But the tramp must be caught first."

"I've got one."

"Where?"

"In a trap."

The newspaper man looked around for something like a mouse trap on a large scale with a tramp in it; but there was nothing to be seen but boxes and trunks.

"I don't see him," he said.

"He is on this car," declared the baggage master. "At this very moment he is riding outside. No, you can't see him because he is lying across the platform. I caught sight of him just after we left Trenton. He looked very comfortable and he doesn't know that anybody is on to him. But I have to keep a sharp lookout for the reason that I frequently carry money and other valuables."

"Why don't you put him off?"

"Because we don't stop until we get to Philadelphia, but he will have a nice bath before he gets there."

"How do you mean?"

"I'll show you presently. You see we are just behind the tender of the locomotive. I have given a private signal to the engineer and he knows what is expected of him. Only about a mile ahead now there is a water trough, where the locomotive takes up water while going at full speed. It is a sort of a ditch which runs along for a considerable distance between the rails filled with water. The locomotive takes up the water with a kind of scoop. Just watch."

A moment later the water trough was struck and the spray began flying out of top of the great iron tank of the tender, the lid of it flapping up and down while the reservoir filled itself from below. This did not occupy more than half a minute, at the end of which the engineer should have pulled up the scoop. Instead of that, however, be permitted the tank to overflow in a cataract, which was flung backward like a miniature Niagara against the forward end of the baggage car.

"Just look at that," cried the baggage master, delightedly. "Ain't he getting it though!"

In truth the unfortunate tramp must have been getting it with a vengeance, for the tremendous flood of water spouting from the top of the tank continued to fling itself against the face of the baggage car for fully three-quarters of a minute, which must have been nearly sufficient to drown any human being on the front platform. So copious was it that the water flowed in beneath the door and threatened to inundate the freight.

"If that fellow is still alive," said the baggage master when the cataract had finally suspended its activity, "he has had enough to give him a distaste for water for the rest of his life. There isn't anything that will frighten a man like a dose of that sort, according to our expeirence. Coming on him unawares it scares him most to death, besides half drowning him. He don't know when it is going to stop, and he has to choose between standing it and jumping off the train."

"But suppose he should jump off and be killed?"

"What would it matter?" replied the baggage master philosophically.

When the train slowed up an hour later near Philadelphia the newspaper man saw a figure that looked more like a drowned rat than a human being crawl off the front platform of the baggage car and steal sorrowfully away. It was the tramp, who had a bath as well as a ride at the expense of the railway.—Washington Star.

SPECIAL SALE!

One Week Only—Beginning Monday, Nov. 21, at 9 A. M.

One Week Only—Ending Monday, Nov. 28, at 6:30 P. M.

The Misfit never advertise anything they do not have, and at the prices as published.

This is too early ordinarily for a cut price sale, but we own these goods at less than ordinary prices.

Large invoices have been sent to us during the last few days by leading tailors from the east, which, under ordinary circumstances, would be more than we could dispose of, but the prices were so ridiculously low that we were almost forced to receive them, knowing that the prices at which we could and are now offering these goods would dispose of this surplus stock in a very short time. We can fit any size or shape, as they were cut for normal, lean, stout or extra size men.

A WORD TO THE WISE IS SUFFICIENT.

LOOK AT THESE PRICES.

Fine Custom-Made Suits, $10, $12, $15 and $18,
